

Fair All Set To Open Here Next Week

It will be a Fair with some new wrinkles added and the old ones made better when the gates open Tuesday morning for five days of the Fayette County Fair, the agricultural and entertainment extravaganza which has been in the making almost since the last concession pulled up stakes a year ago.

The Board met for its customary pre-opening session Monday night and ironed out the last few remaining details.

Among the principal subjects under discussion were the new wartime regulations on transportation which had been received with the permit issued by the Federal Office of Defense Transportation to hold the Fair.

The new regulations, received long after arrangements for Fayette County's agricultural exposition had been put into effect, were taken up one by one. At the end, the directors agreed Fair plans here were entirely within rules laid down and that they all had been adhered to insofar as it was within the board's power at this late date. They insisted, too, that the regulations would in no way hamper the Fair or lessen its appeal.

The directors pointed out that when they first started making plans for this year's event they had turned all of their efforts into building up what the livestock show superintendent described as purely "local"—that is within the county—Fair this year because of the wartime conservation measures of the past. They agreed not only that the objective had been achieved but also that a Fair with a particular appeal had been the result. No exhibits with out-of-county entries could be recalled. Early plans for the National Dorset Sheep show were voluntarily cancelled and moves for two or three state livestock shows were halted almost before they were started just because travel restrictions were anticipated.

As for the races, the committee chairman said "why, there are Fairs are a tradition in Fayette County.

A few of the "old timers" who are now up in their 'eighties, recall the early days in the county, when the event, outstanding in many respects, was held on the Old Fairground on Columbus Avenue.

Mrs. Clara Siebern, residing on the Snow Hill Road, is one of those who vividly recalls the early fairs back in the dark days when the North and South fought bloody battles to determine the question of whether a state could withdraw from the Union and other questions of freedom.

When she was a small girl, Mrs. Siebern attended the fairs with her parents and other members of the family.

There were no merry-go-rounds in those days. Midway attractions were few and chiefly of a fake nature and there was no lemonade or other refreshments on the grounds.

There were no eating places, for in those days each family packed a basket for a picnic dinner. Family reunions were a feature of the gatherings.

Two horse wagons—buggies—were then virtually unknown and automobiles never dreamed of—were used to go to and from the fairs.

The wagons all had high wheels because in those days most of the roads in the county were almost bottomless during wet weather, and it really required two horses to pull a light one if it rained.

A board fence was around the Old Fairground and a few buildings, some of which were still standing 35 years ago, were about the grounds, with stables for the horses of members of the Fair Board on the south side of the grounds.

Each day of the Fair the grounds were crowded, for the Fair was possibly an even bigger event in those days from the point of local interest, than it is now with so many other attractions within easy reach of the average person.

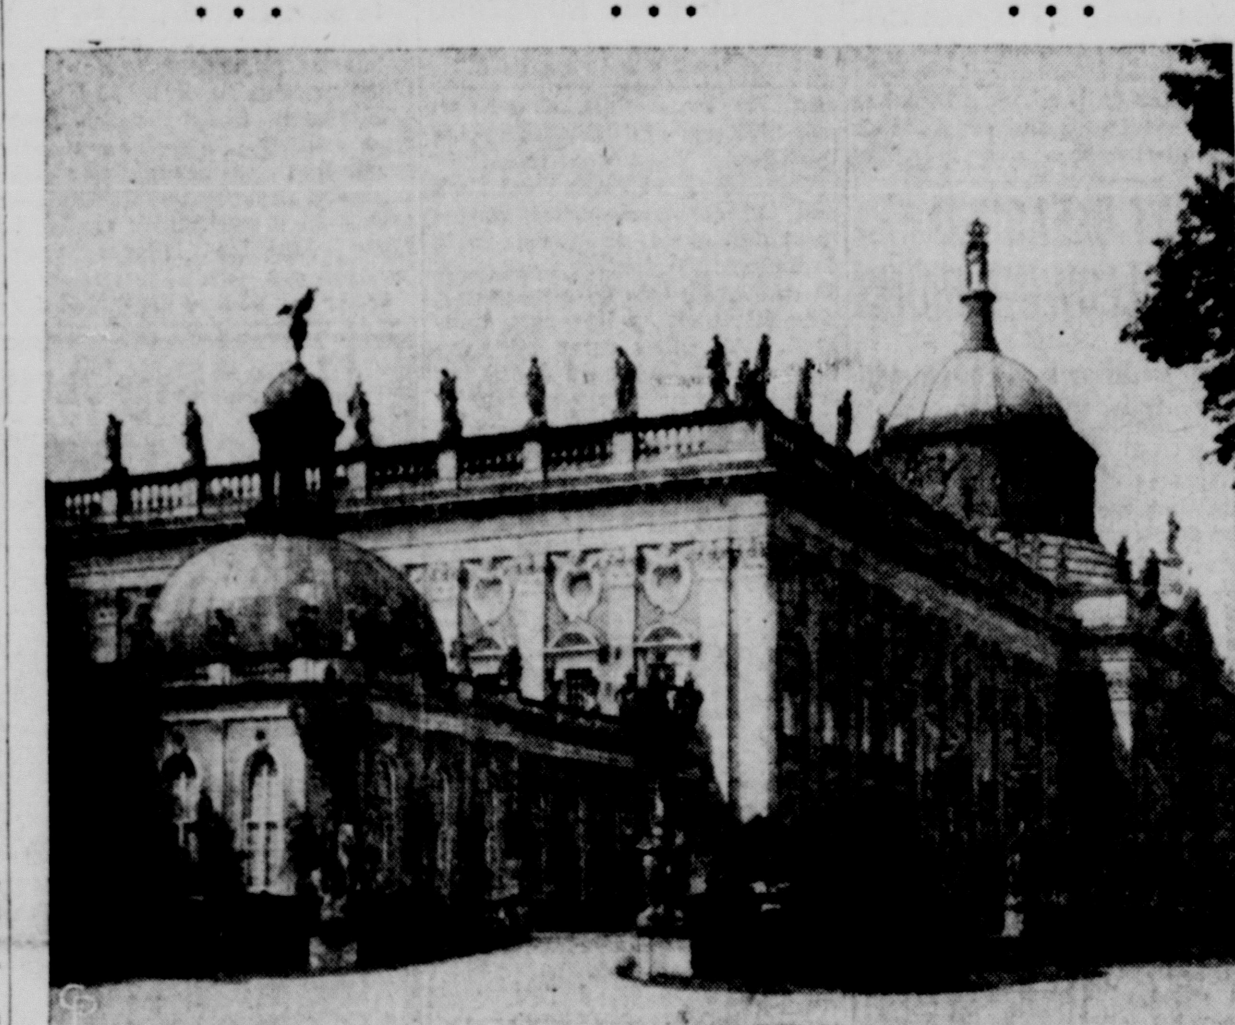

Some people have a good sense of humor.

To our embarrassment this classified advertisement appeared under the "Good Things to Eat" section: "FOR SALE: Black English Shepherd puppies from heel driving parents. Some eight weeks old. Others ready to go to work. Male or female. Also two bulldogs."

Then we got this anonymous note: "I hardly believe meat will ever be quite this short. Do you? Or are puppies really good to eat?"

Yes, our face WAS red! But we all got a good laugh, too. In case you haven't already discovered it yourself, the classifieds in any newspaper—including the Record-Herald—are good for laughs. Read them sometime and see!

Truman and Stalin Hold Preliminary

PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin are using this palace at Potsdam, Germany, for their historic "Big Three" meeting where Japan's quick defeat, the joint administration of Germany and reparations to be exacted from Germany are to be settled. The conference palace was built by Frederick the Great who ironically had England for an ally in his war with Russia. These two powers now sit in conference with a representative of a nation yet unborn in Frederick's time, to decide the ultimate fate of Frederick's Germany.

Shortage of Food To Last Some Time

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP)—Americans can expect food shortages for many months to come.

So saying in a "frank report" last night, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson added:

"We are likely to dine on more simple fare, minus the choice roasts, the thick juicy steaks, and much of the sweetening of pre-war years."

Anderson gave this picture in a radio talk in which he said his first examination of the situation since entering the cabinet July 1 convinced him little if any improvement could be obtained before next year's production season.

He assured consumers, however, his department is taking "positive steps" to increase production.

But "because it takes time to produce food, not much relief from actual shortages can be expected during the rest of 1945. The supply of food we have available to us at this time was fixed by what was done a year or more ago just as what we do now will determine the food supply that will be on hand next year."

Foods are shorter now than they might have been, Anderson asserted, adding "we did not have the foresight last year to hold on to our abundance."

While waiting for greater production, Anderson said his department will try to obtain better distribution of available supplies by "cooking off" black markets and by paring military, other governmental and foreign relief demands to minimum requirements.

He said the department also will seek supplementary production and supplies in other parts of the world, particularly South America.

No Explanation Given for Delayed Start of Big Three Conference — Secrecy Heightened by Mysterious Explosions in Russian Part of Berlin

POTSDAM, July 17.—(AP)—Premier Stalin conferred with President Truman at the Little White House today in company with their ranking foreign affairs officials a few hours before the world-shaping Big Three conference was scheduled to start.

The generalissimo, attired as a marshal of the Soviet Union, was accompanied by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. They were guests at luncheon of the president and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes.

The atmosphere of secrecy surrounding the delayed start of the conference with Prime Minister Churchill was heightened by three mysterious explosions in the Russian zone of Berlin.

The two Soviet leaders arrived in Potsdam two days ago, it was disclosed. There was no explanation, however, why the opening of the conference had been delayed yesterday.

The Russians appeared at Mr. Truman's residence with their official interpreter, V. N. Pavlov, and were greeted by the president's military and naval aides and then by Mr. Truman and his secretary of state in their offices.

JOHN W. SNYDER NEW MOBILIZER

Truman Names Old Friend To Succeed Vinson

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP)—John W. Snyder, 49-year-old banker from Arkansas and Missouri, will be the new "assistant president"—boss of the vast home front.

President Truman reached across an ocean yesterday to nominate a his close friend as director of war mobilization and reconversion, succeeding Fred M. Vinson. The Senate is expected to approve the nomination promptly, also that of Vinson to be secretary of the treasury.

Snyder now is federal loan administrator. Mr. Truman put him in that office just two and a half months ago. There Snyder succeeded the same Vinson, who was loan administrator only one month.

Under Snyder's leadership, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was streamlined and reorganized for its role in reconversion. Subsidiary corporations were merged into the RFC.

In his new job, Snyder will give orders to government agencies, issue decrees governing civilian participation in the war, and supervise the whole complicated change-back to peace.

Great Lakes Liner Flares In Flames; None Known Killed

Sarnia, Ont., Hospitals Crowded With Burned and Injured Passengers Who Leap Overboard — Many Fayette Countians Have Taken Cruises on Hamonic Now Believed Total Loss

SARNIA, Ont., July 17.—(AP)—The 360-foot Great Lakes passenger liner Hamonic carrying 255 passengers, was destroyed by fire today with many persons injured and burned, but a clerk at the Canada Steamship Lines said "as far as we know no lives have been lost."

The clerk, J. H. Aitchison, said it was believed all aboard scrambled to safety after fire that broke out in the 1,000-foot long freight docks at Point Edward spread to the vessel. The docks were leveled.

American and Canadian fire fighters joined forces to combat the flames on the ship and ashore.

The Hamonic, one of the largest passenger ships on the lakes, had left Detroit last night on a cruise and was tied up at Point Edward, near the Blue Water Bridge. The bridge spans the St. Clair River at the southernmost tip of Lake Huron, connecting Port Huron on the American side and the Canadian cities of Sarnia and Point Edward.

Passengers Jump Overboard

Within five minutes the superstructure of the ship was a mass of fire, sending many of the 255 passengers overboard. Some jumped into scows, others leaped

STEAK AND GRAVY IS BACK ON MENUS

Western Kansas Restaurants Have It Anyway

TOPEKA, Kans., July 17.—(AP)—Beef steaks and large portions of potatoes and gravy were back on the menus of western Kansas restaurants last night, and to wheat farmers in Greeley County the news spelled success for their harvest.

Yesterday harvest hands threatened to move out of the area after going to bed the night before without supper. The critical food shortage developed when western Kansas cafes closed their doors for lack of sufficient points to serve the customary harvest menus.

Farmers appealed to State Representative Clair Curry, or Greeley County, who protested to Governor Andrew Schoepfel.

Action was prompt, as the OPA already had moved to increase food allotments throughout the Kansas wheat belt.

GOLD COIN ASKED FOR BRETTON WOODS

Taft Wants Monetary Plan Postponed for While

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP)—A Senate minority worked today to write into the Bretton Woods world monetary plan restrictions on its scope and a bi-metal base for the American dollar abroad.

Senator Thomas (D-Oklahoma) pushed amendments to create a new gold coin for use in the proposed $9,100,000,000 world bank and to authorize use of silver as part of the U. S. subscription to both the bank and an $8,800,000 currency stabilization fund.

Senator Taft, (R-Ohio) calling for postponement of the whole plan until European nations have set their economic houses in order, told his colleagues yesterday few proponents of the Bretton Woods plan understand it.

They are victims, he said, of a widespread "propaganda" campaign and "emotional appeal."

ENEMY SUSPECTED IN DEATH OF MAN

Engineer Carried B-29 Engine Plans

CINCINNATI, July 17.—(AP)—Officials of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation said they suspected "murder at the hands of an enemy agent" in the death in Chicago today of Arthur Joseph Sikora, 39, chief plant engineer who left here Monday, they added, "with plans for the windup of the Japanese war so far as B-29 engine production is concerned."

"There is no other way to look at it," declared Varley Young, head of the huge Lockheed Plant's public relations department.

Sikora's body plummeted from the window of his 20th story room onto the roof of a six-story office 20 minutes after two friends had left him, Young said.

MURDERED CHILD BURIED BUT ONLY GRANDFATHER IS THERE FOR CEREMONY

MEDINA, Pa., July 17.—(AP)—John Dufficy stood alone and watched the body of his 2 1/2-year-old grand-daughter, Sandra Lee McCann, as it was lowered into its grave yesterday.

Sandra's father, Pvt. Lawrence McCann, was killed in Italy in September, 1943, without having seen his daughter.

Her mother, Mrs. Roberta Dufficy McCann, was in a hospital recovering from shock.

Her grandmother, Mrs. Anne E. Dufficy, was in prison, charged with her murder.

Chief of Detectives Fred Jack said Mrs. Dufficy admitted she spanked the child resoundingly July 9 to stop her "squealing and squirming." Assistant District Attorney William Toal said the child suffered severe bruises and welts as a result. An autopsy showed Sandra died of a broken neck and a cerebral hemorrhage.

'Human Pincushion' Now on Okinawa

World's Fair Attraction Becomes Dart Game for Seabees - - - Ex-mayor Civic Minded

By VERN HAUGLAND

YELLOW BEACH THREE, Okinawa.—(AP)—There's a Seabee outfit here with more than its share of "characters," including the first mayor of Winfield, N. J., and "Bruno," the human pincushion.

Seabees (Navy construction battalions) don't have much occasion to use pincushions, so "Bruno" for the duration is serving more usefully as a portable, every-ready dart game.

"Bruno" is Coxswain James H. Upton, a Wisconsin native and former millwright who has served with Seabee stevedore gangs on Guadalcanal and Okinawa. He was a star attraction in freak shows at the Chicago and New York World Fairs.

"When we want to play darts, we just use Bruno," said his friend, Navy Lt. Edward Mackin, 38, of Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y.

"We paint a mercurychrome target on his back, and then he lets

WARSHIP GUNS OPEN UP AGAIN ON COAST CITIES

Thousands of All Types of Planes Spread Destruction As Emperor Begins To Cry

By LEONARD MILLIMAN

By The Associated Press.

Unprecedented swarms of carrier planes and blazing battleship guns opened the second week of bombing Japan from the sea and air today.

Fifteen hundred American and British carrier planes swept over the Tokyo area for eight hours during the day. A daring task force led by the new battleship Iowa moved in close to shore, barely 80 miles from Tokyo, shortly before midnight (Japan time) and began shelling vital smelters and aircraft parts plants at Hitachi. The attack continued into Wednesday (Tokyo time).

Simultaneously Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced 374 Japanese vessels and 129 locomotives were destroyed or damaged in a two-day carrier sweep over northern Japan last week end.

Carrier planes returned to the attack today, joining with British sea-borne air units and approximately 500 Superforts to give the enemy's homeland perhaps its heaviest aerial pounding of the war. They were virtually unopposed.

Hitachi and its war industries, previously hit by Superforts, lies 80 miles northeast of Tokyo and 200 miles south of Kamaishi, first Japanese city to be shelled by U. S. warships. Hitachi was the third to feel the sting of 16-inch shells within four days.

Nimitz described the air attack and unprecedented naval bombardment as the "pre-invasion stage."

Naval Bombardment

American Third Fleet warships bombarded the Japanese mainland for the third time tonight (Japanese time) Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in a brief communique.

The daring task force steamed within 80 miles of Tokyo.

Led by the battleship Iowa with her 16-inch guns, the naval task force shelled the vicinity of Hitachi on the east coast of Honshu (mainland of Japan).

Nimitz described the bombardment as heavy and said "the action is continuing."

War industries were again the target of American naval guns as they were Saturday and Sunday when steel mills were shelled at Kamaishi and Muroran.

The communique issued during the bombardment, said:

"Some of the most colorful battleships of the Third Fleet, including the U. S. S. Iowa, with cruisers and destroyers brought industrial concentrations in the vicinity of Hitachi on the east coast of Honshu under heavy bombardment late in the evening of July 17 (Japan time). The action is continuing."

Unusual Activity

Premier Kantaro Suzuki went to the imperial palace at the unusual hour of 5 P. M. today to submit a report to Emperor Hirohito on "the general administration," Tokyo radio announced.

Heretofore Suzuki's predecessors, Premiers Hideki (the Razor) Tojo and Kantaro (the Tiger) Koiso have been ousted after military setbacks.

Revised figures on the U. S. Third fleet's combined air and naval bombardment of northern Japan showed that, in addition to naval guns, carrier aircraft:

Destroyed 140 Japanese vessels, 84 locomotives, 37 planes, and a great variety of ground installations.

Damaged 234 ships and surface

IRON MOUNTAIN IN BRAZIL IS MOVED TO SEA

Americans Lend Hand So Vital War Material Can Get To Britain

WASHINGTON—With American technical cooperation, Brazil is moving a mountain of iron ore from the interior to the seacoast for shipment to the steel furnaces of Great Britain's war industry, says the Office of Inter-American Affairs.

The scene of the effort is the Rio Doce Valley, a region with an incredibly rich and all most inexhaustible deposit of iron ore at one end, a small but adequate port at the other, and a 330-mile railroad connecting the two.

The ore is important to the United Nations' war effort for its amazing high quality and its abundance. The highest possible yield of metallic iron from hematite ore is 70.4 per cent, and a considerable part of this Brazilian deposit has a content of 69.7 per cent. By comparison, the best-known U. S. ore—from the Lake Superior region—contains about 51 per cent. The Brazilian ore also has a phosphorous content averaging not more than one per cent—phenomenally low, says the OIA.

The source of this ore extends over an area five miles long and one mile wide. It includes four mountain peaks which are roughly estimated to contain a total of 300,000,000 tons of high grade, low phosphorous ore, plus almost limitless reserves of lower grades. The part now being worked is Caue, about 4,600 feet high—surface mining which extends down the mountainside to about 3,500 feet.

The region, called Rio Doce (Sweet River) for its main stream, contains about 25,000 square miles. Other assets there in addition to iron are gold, manganese, bauxite, nickel, mica, rock crystal and semi-precious stones. Scores of waterfalls on the larger river have been surveyed to determine their adaptability for a development on the model of United States' TVA.

Itabora, the site of the mine, and Vitoria, the outlet on the coast, are on virtually the same latitude about 300 miles north of Rio de Janeiro.

The job of harnessing this out-of-the-way component to the Allied war machine has devolved almost entirely on Brazilian and American officials and technicians, with the British furnishing the shipping and the market for the ore.

Fayette County Soldier Is Among Last Group

MIAMI, Fla., July 17—(Spcl)—Flying the Atlantic was just another part of a trip for 73 Ohioans, including Pvt. Harold E. Dearth, Washington C. H., route 2, with 37 months in the First Armored Division, Italy.

The important thing to them was the end of the journey—home soil, at Miami Army Air Field, after months or in some cases, years, of overseas service.

Tumbling happily to the ground from the Air Transport Command planes—the "sky train" which is bringing them home at the rate of 50,000 monthly—the Ohio soldiers were on their way again within 24 hours, this time by train, department was the American interpreter. Pavlov has accompanied Stalin to all the previous Big Three meetings. The six were together for an hour before going to lunch.

Mr. Truman wore a brown business suit and sat at the head of the table. The generalissimo's uniform was fawn-colored with silver-verged stars on the epaulets. He sat on the president's right.

Pavlov and Molotov sat to Stalin's right in that order, while Byrnes, Bohlen and Admiral William O. Leahy, Mr. Truman's personal chief of staff, were at the president's left in that order.

The luncheon was concluded at 2:45 P. M. The menu included creamed spinach, fried liver and bacon, smothered with onions, baked ham, Julienne potatoes, string beans, Pumpernickel bread, jam, sliced fruit, cookies, mint, candies and cigars.

Truman directed Vice-Adm. Emory S. Land, chief of the U. S. Maritime Commission, to proceed to Germany as soon as possible, indicating post-war world shipping and utilization of the United States' greatest merchant fleet in history would play a part in the discussions.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. Army Air Forces, are now on the conference scene.

The parley agenda will cover a world-wide range of subjects, including territorial disputes, occupation, rehabilitation and stabilization.

Adm. William D. Leahy, Truman's personal chief of staff, and the joint chiefs of staff are on hand to advise on military problems such as continuation of the war against Japan.

American and British newspapers predicted Russian participation in the Pacific war would be a likely question for discussion. They also forecast the three Allied leaders would take up the problem of administrative control of Germany.

A communique will be issued at the conclusion of the conference, which will be conducted in secrecy, although it has been reported President Truman favors earlier communique when progress of the parley warrants.

President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill toured devastated Berlin in separate inspections yesterday. Truman said the sight of the wrecked city strengthened his determination to leave unexplored no avenue for keeping the peace in the future.

Fifteen veterans from the 713th Military Police Battalion of the Second Armored Division supplement the regular force of secret service men as personal bodyguards for President Truman in Potsdam.

They are under orders to keep the president always in sight from the moment he steps outdoors in the conference area. They kept close to him on his Berlin tour yesterday and accompanied him to various points here today.

They include Pfc. Robert L. Cornett, Jr., 508 Broadway, Portsmouth, Ohio.

None of the passengers was able to save personal belongings, so fast did the flames break over the ship.

Offices of the steamship lines in Detroit said indications were that the Hamonic would be a total loss. No accurate estimates of the number of injured were available.

The 360-foot boat, one of the Canada Steamship Lines fleet, docked here at 4 A. M. today. The fire broke out about 8:30 A. M., as most of the passengers were eating breakfast.

G. R. Brewster, a Warren, O., banker who was aboard the ship, escaped by sliding down a rope over the side. He was at breakfast when he saw flames burst out of the freight shed.

Brewster said he had tried for three months to get accommodations for the Hamonic cruiser, finally getting his tickets only two days ago when some one else canceled a reservation.

SHERIDAN IS SUED BY OPA ATTORNEY

Restaurateur Has Statement About Overcharge

COLUMBUS, July 17—(P)—A treble damage and injunction suit was filed in federal district court today by Harry Nester, district OPA enforcement attorney, against Harold Sheridan, doing business as Sheridan's Restaurant, 206 E. Court St., Washington Court House.

Sheridan is accused of charging $1.50 for four ice cream sundaes, or $9.00 above the ceiling. An injunction and minimum damages of $25.00 are asked by OPA.

Sheridan said Tuesday: "I am taking for granted this man is from the Columbus district office. On the ninth day of June, 1945, he called me into his office at Washington C. H. with an article signed and sworn to by, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mershon and another man and woman, charging an overcharge of chocolate sundaes at a charge of 37 1-2 cents each. However, on the sixth day of June, 1945, said parties entered said restaurant at such time ice cream was almost an impossibility to get, and finding that there was a possibility of them getting an ice cream or a chocolate sundae, demanded of the waitress that she serve them a huge quantity of ice cream, making the accusation they cared not what the cost might be—they wanted ice cream. She served them the ice cream in a regular chocolate sundae service order, which they refused, pushed back to the waitress and said, 'Take this back. Get one of those large soup bowls, fill that with ice cream, cover it with chocolate, and serve us.' Said soup bowl contained four or five ten cent servings of ice cream covered with chocolate syrup. However, they were charged only a $1.50 for four huge servings but our OPA states and tells me, Harold Sheridan, I am definitely wrong and have violated an OPA ceiling price by charging 37 1-2 cents per serving for ice cream. The district man of Columbus tells Sheridan that regardless of what size, quantity of ice cream or any other commodity he might serve, it is still one serving and you have to charge accordingly as per their OPA price."

President of Fair

Ray Brandenburg has been president of the Fair Board since its re-organization in 1935.

He classifies himself as a "general handyman" to the rest of the Fair Board but in reality he handles many weighty problems with the ability which shows he Blanchester. That was when he was a boy on a farm near Villars Chapel in Clinton County—the farm where he was born, incidentally.

He taught school two years—in Pansy and Hopewell Schools in Clinton County near his home. Between those two years as a schoolmaster, he sandwiched in a year at Ohio Wesleyan University.

He started in the garage business in 1923, in Sabina. Four years later he moved to Washington S. H. and now owns and operates the Brandenburg Motor Sales on Clinton Avenue.

Brandenburg is president of the Board of Education and of the newly-organized Chamber of Commerce, as well as being active in Rotary Club activities. He also has headed blood donor campaigns here.

Jolly and affable, he handles all his many duties with dispatch and efficiency.

And here's a tip on why he may like the Fair so well—he met Mrs. Brandenburg at a Fair.

His hobby is fishing, particularly bass for which he casts with either artificial or minnow bait. He is fond of his four children too, Donald and his twin sister, Mrs. William McCoy, Mrs. Dale Ward and Doris Brandenburg. His home is on Washington Avenue.

left, including the 12 train ferries upon which the Nipponese relied to move vital raw materials from Hokkaido Island to steel plants on northern Honshu.

These carrier attacks were pressed through extremely adverse weather without the loss of an American ship. Sixteen airmen and 24 planes failed to return.

These same carrier forces were included in the mighty sea armada—the greatest ever assembled—which lay perhaps 200 miles off the coast of Japan today while American and British pilots broke through a thick haze for an eight hour attack on the network of air-dromes, military installations and industries around Tokyo.

Emperor Cries For Help The combined assault which brought together the mightiest units of the American and British naval forces was carried out under command of Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey, Jr., without any apparent sign of Nipponese retaliation, despite an appeal by Emperor Hirohito his air forces to do something to protect his throne.

THE WAR TODAY

DEWITT MACKENZIE—

We keep repeating (and with sound reason) the truism that world peace depends on the unity of the Big Three, but when there arises any question of just what might cause a rupture of good relations we are inclined to take cover in order to evade a delicate subject.

We come naturally by this caution. It's a heritage from the European War—the idea of avoiding the discussion of controversial matters which might make hard feelings among the Allies in the midst of a life or death struggle. However, the Hitlerian war is finished (we hope) and we have arrived at a time when frank exchange of views is all to the good, especially since each of the Big Three is anxious to preserve unity. So what are the tender spots?

To begin with there's a completely new and bewildering alignment of power on the continent of Europe. Russia has emerged as dominant force. Her dominance is due partly to her own vast strength and partly to the fact that two great powers, Germany and Italy, have been rendered impotent. This means that the European spheres of influence have shifted, for the world is divided into zones of influence—like it or not.

Well now, this shift has brought an interlocking of the British and Russian spheres of influence in some places, and might easily affect others. Here then is one of the danger spots, for it's easy to see that deliberate pushing by either nation might give rise to serious difficulties between them. It's a situation which will call for much give and take.

Closely identified with this are the self-determined and sovereignty of small nations to which all the Big Three subscribe. Impingement on these cardinal rights could cause a break among the trio. But here enters a new and delicate element, and this is that great powers will insist that neighboring small nations be friendly. The outstanding example of this so far has been Poland, though there are others and there will be more.

This desire of a major power to make sure that good relations with its neighbors are air-tight is generally conceded as justifiable. However, it's easy enough to see that a case might arise in which the sovereignty of a small country would be impaired by some great power in order to bring the former into line. Apropos of this, when the Polish government in London charged that Russia was depriving Poland of sovereignty and self-determination, Britain and America insisted that their Russian ally take steps which would ensure that Poland had her rights.

As remarked in yesterday's column, continuation of confidence among the Big Three depends on dissipation of any suspicions they may have of one another's intentions. Western Europe long has had pronounced suspicions that Moscow was bent on spreading Communism throughout the continent—throughout the world for that matter. This suspicion hasn't been dissipated and probably won't be until Russia's actions have made her intentions clear.

That is another danger spot. When Moscow in 1943 announced the abolishment of the Comintern (the general staff for a world-

30 ADDITIONAL REVENUE AGENTS WILL BE ADDED

Wartime Tax Evaders Will Be Sought All Over the Nation

Thomas A. Gallagher, collector of internal revenue for the First Ohio District, which includes Fayette County, said today that 30 agents will be added to the staff in this district to assist the Treasury Department's drive against wartime tax evaders.

Primarily, the positions will be allotted to persons having experience in business, accounting, legal, and investigation work which would fit them for employment as deputy collectors, revenue agents, and special agents. A limited number of clerical positions must also be filled. Salaries for the positions range from $1,704 plus overtime for clericals to $5,180 plus overtime for technical and administrative positions.

The efforts of these additional employees, together with the intensified effort of existing staffs, are expected, according to Secretary of the Treasury Henry A. Morgenthau, Jr., to collect at least a billion dollars of additional revenue from tax chiselers all over the country.

Altogether this effort to force black marketeers and other tax evaders to pay their fair share of the war cost will require the addition of more than 10,000 qualified employees to the Internal Revenue Service throughout United States. This goal has been endorsed by President Truman, congressional committees, and many public-spirited associations such as the leading veterans and labor organizations.

The drive is nationwide in scope but Gallagher said numerous "leads" have been received in this district and will be investigated as thoroughly and rapidly as possible. These "leads" are expected to result in substantial additional taxes and penalties. In those cases where intentional fraud is indicated, criminal prosecution will also be recommended.

Gallagher said that information received from Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in Washington, indicates that widespread evasion of taxes is being uncovered by revenue agents, not only on the part of wide dissemination of Communism) it was in effect a declaration that this crusade had been abandoned. Should anything happen to give Britain or other countries of Western Europe the idea that the Red campaign was still being directed from Moscow, it might cause trouble.

America, of course, is so far removed from Europe that she is less in danger of involvement in continental difficulties than are her two Allies. Her turn perhaps will come with the defeat of Japan and the readjustment of Asiatic affairs.

Give us twelve months of good going and any suspicions which may exist will be removed. Meantime the Big Three have to keep well in mind that the portion of Europe over which the Hitlerian war was fought is full of political mines and booby-traps and that one must tread circumspectly.

PEACETIME USE OF DDT GIVEN RIGID TESTING

War-developed Insecticide Experiments Conducted on Big Scale Now

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON — DDT, the war-developed insecticide, is under going a rigorous trial this summer by scientists seeking to determine whether large-scale use will prove a boon or a menace.

The laboratory men want to learn the effects of spraying field and stream.

It's already known that it can kill a greater variety of insects than any other insecticide known to man. It's been successfully employed against a host of pests which beset man, beast and plant, thus offering wide possibilities for its use in agriculture, preventive medicine, forest conservation and the protection of recreational areas.

But tests also have shown that DDT also can be injurious to many beneficial insects, such as honey bees, as well as to forest parasites and other natural enemies which help keep other insects under control.

So the scientists want to determine from large-scale tests the effects of the insecticide on these beneficial insects and on fish, birds and other wildlife.

Extensive experiments in aircraft spraying of woodland areas are being conducted this summer by cooperating federal and state agencies in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Nebraska.

The agencies taking part are the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine and the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture; the Fish and Wildlife Service of the U. S. Department of the Interior; the Pennsylvania Bureau of Plant Industry; and the New York Conservation Commission, cooperating in both the Pennsylvania and Maryland experiments.

Until the tests are completed, says Dr. P. N. Annand, chief of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, DDT can not be recommended for large-scale use by aircraft spraying for control of forest pests.

"The large-scale use of DDT against forest pests might upset the balance of nature," declares a statement by experts of the Department of Agriculture.

"This might result in depriving woodland recreation areas of

HE LOOKS FOR JAIL AND FINDS REVOLT

He Finally Had To Enter Model Institution

BOGOTA, Colombia — The day Francisco Antonio Mendez, a single-minded man, came to Bogota to start serving a prison sentence, military rebels had just seized the Central Penitentiary.

Hundreds of police, as well as tanks and armored cars, surrounded the place. But Mendez got through to Jorge Pinzon, director of prisons, who was supervising the siege of the rebels.

"At your orders, Dr. Pinzon," he said, "I have come from Zipaquira to start my jail sentence. I brought this man with me. He is my guard."

"Don't bother me now," Dr. Pinzon said. "There's a revolt in the jail."

"That doesn't worry me," said Mendez. "I'm ready to start my term no matter what is inside."

"Look, I'm very busy. You go see my assistant."

"Why? Here are all the documents telling me to come up here and serve a term. Just tell me where the door is. I'll go in by myself."

"Look," said Pinzon in desperation. "You don't care which jail you go to, do you? How about the new model jail I can get you in there."

Pinzon scribbled an order to the warden of the model jail. Mendez directed his silent guard to follow him and went happily off to confinement.

Fair Vice President

Walter E. Sollars has been on the Fair Board since its reorganization in 1935 and now is its vice president.

He serves on the speed committee and has plenty of qualifications for the job. He used to race horses himself and so did his father. He also helps on the grounds committee.

Sollars was born in the house where he lives now in Concord Township and has lived there all his life. He graduated from Washington C. H. High School in 1905 and attended Wilmington College afterwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Sollars have four other children—Mrs. Carl E. Pickering of Greene County and Mrs. Boyd Butz of the Jamestown Pike; Gene of Worthington and S-Sgt. Herbert with the Army Air Forces in Dutch Guiana, South America.

Interested in constant improvement of the Fair, Sollars admits that his thoughts stray most often to the races and to the livestock shows.

THE FARMER'S WAR JOB HAS NOT BEEN AN EASY ONE!

Shortage of help, implements and a thousand and one causes have conspired against his producing the vitally needed food the entire world is depending on. We too have been handicapped, and at many times unable to supply the needs of the many farmers who have come to count on our machines and farm implements to sow, care for and harvest the life-giving crops. But for whatever we could and did do to help fighting farmers reap their record crops, we are thankful . . . and we will continue to serve these home front soldiers to the best of our ability . . . with the best in farming supplies, for purchases and repairs.

The fruitful activity of the harvest season is evident on the farm lands of America . . . for Victory itself depends on the crops being taken from the good rich earth. Though the tractor takes the place of the tank . . . and the farmer's uniform is a pair of sun-faded overalls, the farm is a battlefield producing Food for Freedom for all the fighting United Nations of the world . . . and on this home front battlefield the Victory will be quickened . . . the peace will be won.

Fayette County's Coming Fair

With the promise of many new attractions and a changed nightly program different than in past years, and with scores of other features and displays which the county fair board has reason to believe will be far above the high standards of other years, the Fayette County Fair next week probably will be outstanding.

Following a custom of several years the Fayette County Fair will be the first big county fair in Ohio for 1945. It carries the good wishes and hopes of being a decisive success from thousands of people over this whole section of the state.

An indication of this widespread interest and desire for a prosperous outcome for this annual event is shown in the expressions from many advertisers and others in today's special "Fair" edition of the Record-Herald. Many matters of far more than ordinary interest regarding this coming attraction will be found within these pages.

The county fair has been referred to as a "morale builder on the home front." In crucial times like the present it offers some relaxation from wartime worries without necessity for any long trips or any letdown in the progress of essential work which people at home are doing. It offers the opportunity for what amounts to a brief needed vacation for many hardworking people in affording them a chance to spend a little time seeing some clean attractions, some excellent horse racing and for enjoying little visits with friends and acquaintances whom they have not often seen recently. In the many fine exhibits of stock, agricultural and merchandise displays by people whom they know, visitors gain an intimate knowledge of what their own neighbors are doing.

In spite of handicaps those behind the county fair this year have refused to allow any discouragement to retard their efforts and as a result one of the most promising programs in years has been arranged. This probably will be one of the best fairs in the history of Fayette County. From all reports it is well worth enthusiastic support.

Big Three Agreements

It looks at the moment as though the international quarrel over the occupancy of Berlin had been settled. Apparently the Russians are finally permitting the Americans and the British to take over their allotted portions of the ruined Nazi capital.

But it has been an aggravating affair. Even if the delay were not as serious as some newspaper accounts seem to indicate, the fact remains that distrust of the Russians' intent has again been aroused. If the Soviet authorities have been guilty of nothing else, they have at least, and again, showed a poor sense of public relations. America lent engineers to the Soviets when they needed them. Maybe we should now lend-lease some of this skilled public rela-

Businessman's Medal

There will not be much kicking about the ODT order forbidding civilian Pullman accommodations on train rides of less than 450 miles. The pictures of servicemen being carried across the continent in crowded day coaches, without air conditioning in summer heat, have taken the starch out of civilian kickers.

However, it does seem that the ODT might take more effective measures to discourage, or better, put an end to, the needless travel of people who are riding the trains just because they have money and the itch to go places.

Many men have to make trips essential to their companies' business. They will cheerfully share crowded transportation with servicemen on leave, who must take their own chances at accommodations. But they should not have to compete with vacationers who are travelling because "Johnny has never seen Chicago."

Maybe, if it isn't possible to relieve the hard-pressed man who must travel, he could receive some kind of medal for carrying on in the face of great discomfort. We don't claim that he is a hero comparable to the service men or women who risk their lives overseas, but his perseverance deserves some reward.

Source of Undulant Fever

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

CERTAIN infections, when they first start, cause severe symptoms, such as fever, headache, sickness to the stomach and vomiting. Then, after the infection continues for a long time or becomes chronic, the symptoms become less severe but still may be disabling. One of the infections which may act in this way is undulant fever or brucellosis. This disorder is caused by a germ known as the Brucella abortus.

The symptoms of chronic brucellosis, according to Doctor Eric Lehr of East St. Louis, are much like that of tuberculosis. There are slight fever which may persist for weeks or months, weakness, tiredness, loss of weight and, often, inflammation of the joints of the spine. Lymph glands also may become enlarged and tender.

Hard to Diagnose

The condition is not always an easy one to diagnose. However, there are various laboratory tests which are used that may be of help. For example, there is a skin test which is made by injecting killed Brucella abortus germs into the upper layer of the skin. If the test is positive, a red swelling occurs at the point of the injection. A positive test means that an infection has been present, but may have been cleared up. In other words, the skin test may be positive, even though no symptoms of brucellosis are present.

The most accurate test is to find the germs of the disease in the blood. However, in the chronic cases, such a positive blood culture often cannot be obtained. The mere fact that these tests are negative does not mean that the patient is not suffering from brucellosis.

Infected Milk

Brucellosis is contracted for the most part by the drinking of milk from infected animals, which has not been pasteurized. So, in other words, getting rid of the disease in animals will keep it from being contracted by human beings. Doctor Lehr recommends that all animals be tested for the presence of brucellosis. If they are found to have the disease they should be slaughtered. Of course, meat cutters and packing house employees who will come in contact with infected animals must be taught how to handle them properly.

The next important step is to enforce the proper pasteurization of milk. When milk is treated in this way, the germs which produce brucellosis are destroyed. Because chronic brucellosis is becoming more common and can result in so much disability it is important that these measures be established.

SPRINTING STAR LOST

TO LITTLE SISTER ONCE

DES MOINES.—(P)—Lee Hofacre, Drake University freshman sprinter, who won two championships and a special trophy as the outstanding athlete in the recent Central Collegiate track meet at Great Lakes, reveals that only a few years ago his twin sister, Lila, used to run the legs off him.

Lee was boys dash champion of the Beatrice, Neb., schools, but that meant nothing to Lila when both were in the sixth grade.

"Lila would beat me five or six yards in a one-block race," says Hofacre, "but she was taller than I was. My little sister, Pat, won everything. She used to run hurdles with me."

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR
"GREAT CAESAR'S ghost but you've gotten touchy!"

Fitz was piloting Terry across the curb toward a taxi.

Terry had lost her sudden burst of anger in the speed of their departure from the club. "Are you taking me home?" she asked.

"No," Fitz answered shortly. "I just wanted to get out of there before that glowering waiter asked me to apologize."

Terry laughed. "Maybe we'd better flip for it," she proposed.

Fitz told the driver to drive around the nearest park. Then he leaned back to slip an arm behind Terry and grin at her.

"Glad to see me, Kitten?"

"Oh—off and on."

"Miss me?"

"I was vaguely conscious you weren't in the same continent, but I slept well and ate three hearty meals a day—just as you did, I can see."

He tilted up her chin and looked into her eyes. "Blue as ever. Look, Kitten, when we weren't lying to each other, we had our moments of honesty, didn't we?"

"As honesty goes, I guess."

"Well—Terry could almost feel his mind clicking along at its old impatient pace. "I just wanted to tell you I was ridding you tonight about Brooks Kimberly. I couldn't resist when you started rolling out prayer rugs and reciting mantras at the mention of his name."

Terry drew back defensively. "I didn't—"

"Furthermore, when I met him tonight, I had the distinct impression that he was giving me the fish eye. He is engaged, isn't he?"

"Of course," snapped Terry impatiently.

"And in Argentina, that's about twice as good as married. Well, if he's the kind of guy that goes around making a play for other dames, I'll mow him down, so help me!"

Terry was staring at Fitz now, too startled to argue. Was it just a natural apprehension that made him believe Brooks resented his coming? She fought the weak hope. Was she entirely mad? Still dreaming of Brooks on the day she had bought her trousseau to marry another man? What if Brooks had liked her well enough to feel a passing jealousy of jealousy. It didn't matter. It could never matter in their lives. His was bound up inextricably with Corinne's—and her own with Fitz. She said slowly and steadily, feeling her way, "I wouldn't be publishing a novel, exploiting the man if I were in love with him, would I?"

Fitz's searching gaze grew thoughtful, then relieved. He gave a low chuckle. "Guess I'm just plain ornery," he sighed. He tightened his arm about her possessively and drew her closer. "Incidentally," he said, "I had lunch with Jeffries of Empire Publishing company last week. Talked up your book to him."

"To Jeffries!" Terry's troubled eyes cleared with sudden joy. "Oh, Fitz—how perfectly swell of you! Did he like the general idea?"

"Yeah. Seemed more than interested. Think he'd go for this peon angle, too, in a big way."

Terry drew a happy breath as the driver turned. He had encircled the park, he reported.

"Well, find another and drive around it," Fitz ordered. "Drive around every park in the city."

Terry chuckled. "That's a big order. There are more than a hundred parks in Buenos Aires, my fine friend."

"The better to ride with you, my dear," growled Fitz. "What do you say we be married before we go home?"

"Well, at last you're getting around to us," Terry murmured. She told him then about the shopping tour, and Jim's parting gift of a fabulously expensive trousseau.

Fitz whistled. "Now there is a woman!" he said. "You know, Kitten, you're not so dull. With your clothes furnished for the first year and some royalties from your book, you're not such a bad bargain. I think we'll get along all right."

"So, it was your own interest you were looking after when you talked to Jeffries. Tell me, what are you buying?"

"You've got to do something about that curiosity of yours," Fitz warned her. "It's getting malignant. No, really, I mean it. I'm getting right reconciled to this double drive existence. How about taking the leap tonight? The three days on the estancia would be a nice honeymoon."

Terry stiffened before she could control herself. She had almost forgotten Jim's invitation. Now, suddenly, the thought of taking Fitz to Windemere was impossible. She had made her decision. She could not go back to live again, even for a day, under Brooks Kimberly's roof—the risk of Fitz' jealous taunts and her own despicable weakness was too great.

She said casually: "Are you terribly set on visiting the estancia?"

Fitz said: "I never went to the wide open spaces willingly in my life."

"Well, then, if your work's over, why don't we fly down to Windemere tonight, pick up my things, and start home?"

Fitz sounded really festive. "Okay with me, Kitten." He leaned forward and told the driver to take them back to the Plaza.

As they went through the lobby, the pink-faced manager rushed forward to chat with them. Terry had a sudden nostalgic vision of that first night she had crossed this lobby so intoxicated with her mad impulse, so light-headed and light-hearted over her wild tilting with Fate. Well, she had won the bout—and the jackpot was more than she had bargained for!

She told the manager they were leaving. Between verbose regrets, he promised to have their bills ready.

Fortunately there was no time for dreaming. She was not quite packed when Fitz arrived from his own packing.

"We can get a cancellation from Rosario on the first lap to New York," he announced. He strode into her bedroom to close and lock the bag she had finished. "But it'll mean we leave from here in an hour, and have only a half hour for your packing at the estancia."

"Okay," Terry said briefly. She threw in the last of her things while Fitz called the airport for the reservations to Windemere. The doorbell rang. The manager must have sent up their bills. She slammed shut the suitcase and went to the door. Fitz was just opening the sitting room door.

Raff was framed in the doorway. He came in and shut the door behind him. His jaw was clamped hard; there was a queer hard look in his eyes. He nodded unseeingly at Fitz when Terry introduced them, then he turned back to Terry.

"I've brought Jim to her room," he said in a low, strained voice. "She rather went to pieces at the dinner."

Terry stared at him, not able to take in such a wild statement. "Jim went to pieces?"

"Brooks called me at the office. There's been a hell of a row at the convention. It seems they have proved that Brooks is the leader of the Workers' League!"

VETERANS' GUIDE
BY MAJOR THOMAS M. NIAL

WASHINGTON — In my last article I was writing about disability pensions payable because of physical impairment. A veteran's physical capacity may be impaired 10 percent or 40 percent or 60 percent because of a disability he got while in the service, so he's entitled to a pension.

But he'll never get it if he doesn't file a claim. The pension to an ex-service man with a 10 percent rating would be $11.50 each month. Amounts increase up to a 100 percent rating—which is $115 a month.

These disability ratings aren't exactly permanent, because an ex-serviceman can apply to have his rating raised if his disability becomes worse. He can apply to the Veterans' Administration for an increased rating, and will get it if medical evidence shows it's deserved. In fact, his rating can be lowered, if upon examination his condition obviously has improved.

In addition to these amounts of pension figured on physical impairment, there are other amounts called "specific disability pensions."

This means that the loss of an eye, or an arm, or a leg entitles a veteran to a specific monthly payment for that loss. Such a payment is in addition to any pension the veteran gets because his physical condition has been impaired.

No use going into all the details but here's an example that should make it clear.

Frank Manley (call him that) got hit out in the Pacific on a carrier. Months later he was minus a foot—it had to be amputated just above the ankle. Naturally, his physical condition was going to be impaired.

Eventually he was discharged from a Navy hospital. With a leg off just above the ankle, his impairment was considered by Veterans' Administration standards to be 40 percent. That would provide disability pension of 46 dollars a month.

But there's a flat amount payable monthly for the loss of a leg above the ankle—below the knee. The amount was 35 dollars. It's a specific disability pension.

Thus Frank was able to get a total monthly pension of 81 dollars a month—$46 for physical impairment and $35 for specific loss of a limb.

Up to now, I've been writing about pensions for service-incurred disabilities—those that are caused in line of duty while in the service. There is another pension payable to ex-service people of this war even though they weren't disabled while in service. These are called "non-service connected disability pensions."

If a veteran served 90 days or more, part of which was after Pearl Harbor, and is now (or later becomes) permanently totally disabled because of some injury or disease not connected with service, he can get a pension of $50 a month as long as he is considered totally disabled. At the age of 65 this monthly pension is increased to $60. If he was discharged because of some disability caused or aggravated by his service, his service can have been less than 90 days.

There are two limitations I haven't mentioned. One is that if his permanent total disability is the result of his own misconduct or vicious habits, he won't be eligible. The other is that this permanent total disability pension isn't payable to any veteran with an annual income of $1000 if single—$2500 if married or has minor children.

This flat $50 a month pension will be reduced to $8 a month for any veteran with neither wife, child nor dependent parent, during any period when he receives hospital treatment or care from any government institution. The same thing happens to a regular disability pension, except that it goes to $20 a month, not $8.

All disability pensions are payable only to ex-service people who were discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — It's doubtful if five cabinet members ever were named with greater favor from Congress than the five President Truman has just appointed to his wartime roundtable.

In the first place, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson was a popular member of the House from New Mexico when he was appointed. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach both were popular alumni of Congress. They all talk congressional language and presumably think along congressional lines.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark never served in Congress but Sen. Tom Connally and especially Speaker Sam Rayburn, as well as several other members of the Texas delegation have been his political godfathers since the day he left Dallas to work for the government. As a member of the "little cabinet" when he was assistant attorney general, tall, genial, drawing Tom Clark widened his following on Capitol Hill considerably.

Postmaster General Robert Hannegan has a popularity niche all his own—but more of that later.

On the other hand, this very favor has put the new Cabinet members squarely on the spot. They take office under the weight of great expectations and if they trip it will be a great disappointment to their loudest rooters in Congress.

Here are some of the things expected of them:

(1) Anderson has to pull some meat other than rabbit out of the hat; straighten out our muddled food problems; keep consumer prices down, farm prices and production up; and do it all quickly enough to take the public, producers, and distributors, wholesale and retail, off congressional necks.

Even with the sweeping powers Congress has given him, Anderson knows what he's up against.

(2) Byrnes has to do the most thorough house-cleaning the state department has ever had (Undersecretary Joseph C. Grew and six other top members of Edward R. Stettinius' team already are reported to have offered their resignations). If Byrnes wants to keep Congress happy, he'll have to take the department out of pink tea diplomacy and put the administration of our foreign policy on a two-fisted, hard-headed, forthright basis. Also he will have to confer frequently with members on both sides of aisle, particularly in the Senate where all treaties must be approved by a two-thirds majority.

(3) Schwellenbach must gather all the loose reins of labor that have been scattered through a half-dozen agencies, and make the labor department an active force in solving the nation's labor problems and in keeping organized labor happy. That, too is a big order.

(4) Clark has to keep up the vigorous policies he has pursued since the days when he was giving the war frauds fits, but not to tread needlessly

June 30 Bride Feted at Shower Monday Evening

Mrs. Norman Armbrust was the honoree when Mrs. Dwight Coffman entertained at her lovely home on Yeoman Street, Monday evening, with a dessert-bridge and miscellaneous shower in honor of her June 30 marriage. Numerous bouquets of garden flowers were seen at points of vantage in the attractively-appointed home which was the perfect setting for the affair.

A delectable dessert course was served at three small tables by the hostess who had decorated each prettily-appointed table with miniature pottery airplanes filled with a variety of small flowers. Tally placecards marked each guest's cover, the placecards being white embossed with a bride in full wedding dress who carried a nosegay in one hand and in the other, a pink parasol. In the dining room where the gifts were placed for the honor guest, the hostess had centered the table with a miniature doll bride who carried a nosegay in one hand and in the other, a pink parasol, which further carried the motif introduced at the tables.

After the informal hour at the tables, the guests spent the remainder of the time playing hearts. Prize winners were Mrs. Armbrust and Mrs. Charles McCoy.

At the close of the evening, Mrs. Armbrust was invited to the dining room where she opened her many lovely gifts. Her response to the guests was sincere and appreciative.

Informal visiting rounded out the evening's many pleasures.

David Vance Honored at Party On 8th Birthday

David Vance, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Vance, 432 Van Deman Avenue, was the honor guest at a gala birthday party given by his parents at their home when he celebrated his eighth birthday. Eighteen guests were invited to spend the afternoon playing various games and other entertainment which was planned around the theme of a circus.

As the guests assembled, piano selections were spontaneously given by Jimmie Newland, who also observed his birthday on that day, Jane Van Voorhis and Carol Dellinger. A peanut hunt in the house awarded prizes to Sue Riley and Jimmie Newland.

Callopo, or musical chair, was then played by the youngsters, when the young host provided the music, and a hilarious time was had.

A miniature circus, complete with caged animals and midway concession attractions centered the dining room table which was laden with numerous birthday gifts when the young host was invited to the dining room. As he opened each gift, his response was most gratifying to the young guests.

They then adjourned to the out-of-doors where they enjoyed informal games on the lawn before returning to the dining room in the Vance home where a large birthday cake and other birthday refreshments were served them. Centering one of the two tables used to seat the guests was a large birthday cake which was topped with eight pink candles and iced with a large D in pink. Favors wrapped in white paper and fastened with miniature American flags were at each cover at the tables.

An animal hunt throughout the Vance home concluded the afternoon's fun, when prizes were presented to Carol Dellinger and Jack Highfield.

Mrs. Karl Kay, grandmother of the honor guest and his aunt, Mrs. John Case, assisted Mrs. Vance during the entertaining of the children.

Those invited were Jimmie Newland, Carol Dellinger, Harry Griest, Jane Van Voorhis, Connie Locke, Billy Burke, Beatrice Van Zant, Darlene Thornton, Gene Minshall, Jack Highfield, Diana Everhart, Teddy Willis, Patty Gardner, Gerald Leasure, Sue Riley, Kay Minshall, Mary Lou Highfield and Erich Blakely.

OVER 200 GIRLS REPRESENTED IN 4-H CLUB SHOW

Judging Scheduled for Week Before Fair; Style Show To Be Feature

The work of over 200 girls will be represented in the 4-H club booths which will be set up in the agricultural building during Fair week.

The 17 girls' 4-H clubs have been working since early spring to complete their scheduled projects, whether they chose sewing or cooking as their work for the season.

All the garments and other samples of needlework, plus cookery will be judged July 18, 19 and 20, Miss Margaret Watson, home demonstration agent, said today as she explained the booths must be set up by 6 P. M. on July 24, the first day of the Fair.

Mrs. Walter Thompson is the chairman of the committee in charge of the decoration. Other women are Mrs. Charles Crone, Mrs. Violet Davis, Miss Barbara Lee Clark, Mrs. Fred James and Miss Alice Lee Montgomery.

A big feature of the 4-H Club phase of the Fair will be a style show slated for Friday night, July 27. The girls will model dresses they have made themselves on a special platform constructed in front of the grandstand, filled with people.

Mrs. Tom Arnold, Mrs. Ralph Pope and Mrs. Charles Crone are in charge of the style show.

Merchandise and War Stamp prizes will be awarded the girls on the basis of the grade put on their garment or food by a woman who knows the things she's judging. The grades and their prizes are: Grade A, $1; Grade B, 75 cents; Grade C, 50 cents and Grade D, 40 cents.

Blue, red and white ribbons will be awarded also for Grades A, B and C. The grade the individual project receives determines the premium which will be awarded, Miss Watson said.

There are nine divisions in the clothing department and four parts of the nutrition course taken by the 4-H club girls.

The judging schedule for the clubs is: Wednesday, 9 A. M., Sew-It-Is (Mrs. Charles Crone, advisor) and Jr. Sew-It-Is, (Mrs. Fred James, advisor); 10:30 A. M., Nip and Tuck, (Mrs. Ralph Pope, advisor); 1 P. M., Victory Sewettes, (Mrs. Jean Warner, advisor); 3 P. M., Sunny Sewers, (Mrs. Don Sollars, advisor).

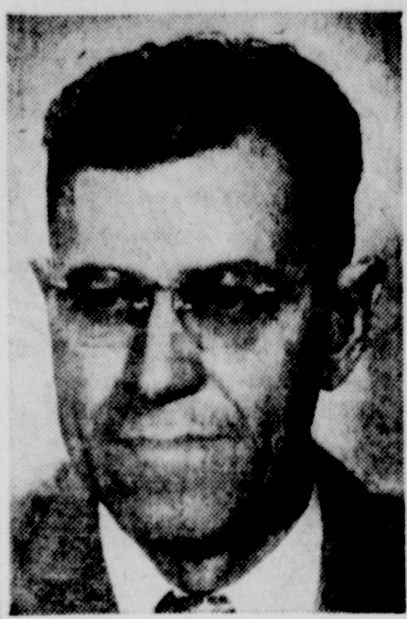

Thus, 9 A. M. Scissors Sisters (Mrs. Charles VanPelt, advisor); 10:30 A. M. Madison Victory Stitches (Barbara Lee Clark, advisor); 11:30 A. M. Stitches Away, (Mrs. Willard Judy, advisor); 1:30 P. M., Stitches of Today (Mrs. Edward Massie, advisor) and 2:30 P. M. Happy Clothiers (Mrs. Tom Arnold, advisor).

Ex-officio Fair Director

In the heart of all agricultural activity in the county is W. W. Montgomery, who has been county agent here since January 9, 1923.

He began working with the Fair the same year and served as secretary in 1927-28-29 and 30. That was when the Fair was operated by the Fayette County Fair Company, a private corporation.

He graduated from Ohio State University in 1918 and was employed at the extension office there until he came here as county agent. He also studied in 1930-31 at the University of California.

SHEEP TO BE FEATURE OF 4-H CLUB EXHIBIT

Beef Calves Fewer Due to Small Prices Paid Last Year

Sheep will be the outstanding feature of the 4-H Club livestock exhibits at the Fair this year, with some 40 to 50 entries and approximately 100 lambs to be shown by club members.

Heretofore baby beef cattle formed the main attraction, but last year's low prices brought at the sale held in connection with the fair, were hardly market prices, although in other parts of the state the 4-H offering sold for many dollars above the average price of the baby beefs sold here.

Those small prices discouraged the youngsters to such an extent that this year only about 10 steers will be offered in the 4-H beef club classes.

W. W. Montgomery, who is superintendent of the Junior Fair said that the Fayette County Shepherd's Club is largely responsible for the big number of lambs to be shown at the fair, and that the same judges who judge the other livestock at the Fair will place the ribbons in the junior department.

In addition to the sheep and steers, some 12 entries will be made in the Dairy Calf Club exhibits.

These exhibits will be in the 4-H Club barn "on the hill" and about 50 pigs to be exhibited by 4-H Club members will be shown in the swine building.

There will be an increase in the poultry shown by the 4-H Club members. Montgomery stated, although no poultry exhibits will be made by adults. The exhibits generally will be good, and the individuals offered will include some of the finest produced in Ohio this year.

Pure bred lambs as well as market grades will be included in the exhibit.

Supt. Montgomery is ready to furnish full information to all youngsters who take part in the exhibits.

The public is urged to view the offering of the boys and girls, and see the high class animals offered by their youthful owners.

Blue ribbons will be awarded on grade A for projects scoring 94 to 100 percent; Red ribbons

LAND'S PRODUCE TO FORM ONE OF FAIR FEATURES

Displays of All Kinds of Grain To Be Spread Out Under Grandstand

As long as there are agricultural fairs in Fayette County, the corn and small grain exhibits will be outstanding for the very good reason that this community for upward of half a century has been the leading corn producing county in Ohio and one of the foremost in the entire nation.

Every Fayette County farmer is corn conscious to a marked degree, due to the large number of corn shows held in connection with Farmers' Institutes and other county and state exhibits. A great many of them also are deeply interested in various small grains and as a result each year brings a good display of corn to the annual Fair here. Exhibits this year promise to be up to standard. John Cannon, director and Paul Shephard, assistant, are looking forward to displays of some of the best corn produced in the community last year.

Due to the fact that hybrid corn is now grown by approximately 95 per cent of the farmers, this type of corn will attract much attention among the exhibits.

Entries must be made by 10 P. M. on July 21 and all samples must have been grown in 1944 by the exhibitor. Premiums in War Stamps and War Bonds will be given for the best corn and small grains in the various classes.

The large number of classes run all the way from single ear of the different varieties to stalk corn with two ears. There are the usual classes for wheat, oats, barley, rye, cloverseed, timothy seed, soybeans, etc.

Much interest will center in the soybean exhibit due to the 15,000 acres of soybeans being grown in the county this year and the fact that the soybean is here to stay as one of the staple crops in Fayette County.

Plans call for exhibiting the corn in the spacious room under the west end of the grandstand.

One of the best judges available will place the ribbons for best exhibits and the corn and small grain exhibits and it will be a real treat to farmers in general to view the exhibits.

The United States has always been called a 'land of plenty.' And so it is, as if God in His all-seeing wisdom knew that history would put upon our shores the responsibility of keeping democracy alive around the world. Winning military, naval and air Victories is only part of the fulfillment of that responsibility. For close upon Victory comes the equally great purpose of providing for the millions of people who must build upon war's scorched stubble the great agricultural, industrial and residential areas which will permit them to exist and produce and again be independent of our aid. It is gratifying to know that this land, and the strong hands which work it, can do so much for so many—who have lost so much. ## BUYING WORRIES FACE MERCHANT AND CUSTOMER

Right Now It's Men Who Are on Short End -- But Better Days Coming

Men may soon be making-up their legs, just like the women have been doing, unless something happens to relieve the scarcity of socks. And, by the same token, they may be wearing neatly ironed shirts with a frill of frayed ravellings around the collars and cuffs.

Things do not look quite so glum, however, for the women. They may be able to gratify some of their whims in the selection of fall wardrobes.

The merchants of Washington C. H. painted a somewhat confusing word picture of their business as a whole, but in the last analysis the consensus of their opinion was that right now the men seem to be on the short end.

By and large, they complain only about the minor and superficial things—principally their inability to offer their customers everything they want. They realize the war has made the difference, and take some consolation from the thought that its end, no matter how sudden, will not catch them with surplus stocks put in at wartime prices.

Their chief worry is that people will get the wrong impression and start trying to buy up scarce merchandise, whether needed or not. Most stores are operating on a self-imposed system of rationing many hard-to-get items on the "one to a customer" basis. Few found attempts to cheat the system.

Their difficulty is getting merchandise from the jobbers and manufacturers. What they do get, goes into a quick turnover. They agree that they can sell almost anything they put on their shelves and racks and show cases.

As for lingerie, they said it was very scarce on the markets, but they looked for an increased amount by fall. However, one source stated that "lingerie production is to be about 25 percent under last fall," so the reports conflict. For some months, it has been almost impossible to find any quantity of women's lingerie displayed in the city's department stores.

Father is out of luck in trying to purchase a new wool suit this fall, unless he purchased one out of last winter's stock. Retailers agree there will be no great amount of wool suits available until January, at least. They attribute this to the fact that the government takes over most of the worsted mills from March until September in order to make materials to supply 9,000,000 service men and women with woollen issues of clothing. Thus, this leaves just a short time for production of woollen goods which can be fashioned into civilian wearing apparel for winter.

The shirt situation for men has been acute here for many months, as many men well know after trudging the streets in a vain attempt to purchase either a white or colored shirt. One businessman displayed six white shirts and not many more colored shirts while another retailer said he "hadn't a shirt in the house and didn't expect any" for some time.

Another necessary item in a man's wardrobe which he is either having to have mended, or do without is under-clothing. Right now, the manager of a downtown store said he had no selection of men's underwear, only a few suits for winter which had been ordered last fall and only arrived this spring. Another said his stock was, and had been, depleted for a long time. He said he didn't know when he would have more.

A year or so ago, many mothers found it almost impossible to find clothing for their fast-growing youngsters. Today, the situation seems somewhat relieved here for several downtown stores have a fairly ample supply of clothing for youngsters. This, they said, was because some manufacturers had concentrated on making women's and men's clothing until the supply on the markets was over-sufficient for the demand. By this time the stock of children's clothing was exhausted, thereby creating a great demand all over the country. Manufacturers then concentrated on children's garments.

Housewives must continue to make their supply of towels, wash cloths, sheets and pillow cases do for the time being, for they are still absent from counters and shelves in the city's stores.

One clothing dealer said he found that he could purchase any amount of articles at "black market" prices which he had refused to pay. In order to preserve a business reputation for quality and in order to play fair in keeping the prices down, he is doing without until the day when he can put standard products at fair prices on his shelves. Others expressed themselves in much the same manner, and in so doing are helping to maintain a price level that will aid in curbing inflation.

If Miss Fashion-Plate of Fayette County has been worrying about a lack of color in her fall

Director of Fair

Baldwin Rice likes Fayette County—and he has a basis for comparison.

He lived in New York City before he came to Ohio ten years ago. Before that, he toured Europe one summer, and just before he came to Fayette County he lived in Highland County.

The illness of his grandmother brought him to his old home at Greenfield from New York. After she died, he stayed here, was elected to the Greenfield School Board, and finally came to Fayette County to breed Herefords.

And he likes his cattle. He worked for Proctor & Gamble in New York "until I got fired in 1933" and, in Rice's own words, wardrobe, she can rest assured that the stores here will have a galaxy of colors and all the newest tones. One dealer said the only color shortage he had found was in white and black, which seemed to be the scarcest. He attributed the lack of white to a shortage of bleaching materials which are being used by the government for various purposes. He did not elaborate on the shortage in black.

Most all of the retailers agreed that in placing their orders for merchandise they go to the business houses where they have a long established business relationship. Here they are allotted their fair portion so as to assure equality of distribution.

Fall apparel is the first season's output to be produced under the much-argued War Production Board M-388 order calling for greater equality in distribution, and the Office of Price Administration maximum average price plan designed to channel more moderate-priced merchandise into consuming quarters.

In short then, the city's department store heads say "we should buy only essential items of clothing, when they are available," and "make what you have do." Several optimistically expressed the opinion there would be a "general let-up in scarce articles by the first of the year."

"They haven't got enough money to get me back." His Texas-born wife, nine year old daughter, Carolina, and he live on his farm nine miles from Washington C. H. He began to breed Herefords six years ago.

Rice joined the Fair Board three years ago, appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Howard C. Allen's resignation. The Fayette County Fair is a family thing with the Rices. Carolina plugs the rodeos while her daddy helps see that the livestock and commercial displays are running smoothly.

COUNTY DISPLAY IN GRANDSTAND IS PLANNED NOW

Exhibits To Be Arranged
Under West End of Bleachers

The county displays, one of the most painstakingly arranged exhibits at the Fair every year, this year will be under the west end of the grandstand, in the same spot as the fruit, vegetable and corn entries.

The object of the county display is to get in one place representative items of all farm and garden products common to Fayette County—and it is one entry in which the exhibitor does not necessarily have to raise all the things shown himself.

Entries in the county display class must be made by 10 P. M., July 21 and must be in place by 5 P. M. July 24, the first day of the Fair.

The scorecard which is used in judging county displays includes grain in sheaf, grasses in sheaf, threshed grains and seeds, vegetables, comparison and attractiveness, fruit, miscellaneous and flowers.

Balance and Speed Mark Fair Race Program

EIGHT STAKES ARE BACKBONE OF $10,000 CARD

Serious Threat to Track Record Expected—Many Grand Circuit Horses

They'll be shooting at that six-year-old track record of 2:03 1/2 next week for, horsemen point out, there will be more high class horses racing at the Fair than for many a day.

The entry list for the eight stakes that form the backbone of the four-day $10,000 program is studded with names of known top-flight horses and some of the country's most prominent stables. More horses than ever before are expected to come here direct from racing on the Grand Circuit.

Followers of the sport of rural America, and even members of the Fair's speed committee, agree that at least five horses staked here are capable of beating the track record and add there probably are others less well known that can perform in the same class. Any one of the seven entered in the 2:04 bar pacing stake could set a new mark, horsemen believe. Pinned down to naming some of the outstanding horses there was unanimous agreement on Jimmy Creed, Filly Direct, Anti-Air-Craft, Attorney and Curly Smart. Filly Direct, owned by C. H. Hayes & Sons of Columbus, has been trained on the Fairgrounds, and like many of the others, has given Fair crowds here thrills before.

The speed committee, headed by George A. Steen, with the approval of the Fair Board, increased the size of the purses for this year's races to meet competition from the big eastern tracks. The old plan of adding money to the stakes payments was abandoned in favor of a set value. In drawing up the expanded program, eight stakes for $1,000 were arranged. Four open class races with $500 purses written to complete the $10,000 program, the most lucrative ever hung up here. The plan got the desired results—plenty of the best horses racing in this section.

Racing is slated to start Wednesday afternoon and continue for four days through Saturday. The program calls for three races each afternoon, making a total of 12 for the Fair. Actually, however, the heavy entry list indicates there will be three races each afternoon, making a total of 12 races of 34 heats. Actually, however, 17 races of 47 heats are in prospect because the entry lists in the stakes are so big that at least five and possibly six will have to be raced in two divisions. Some will be for two heats and some for three; so the exact number remains uncertain almost until the hour for declaring the horses the day before the race.

The stake for two-year-old pacers drew by far the greatest number of entries with 42. Among them are such outstanding youngsters as Ohio Abbe, a home town colt owned by Ernie Smith which won his first start on the Little Grand Circuit at Marion; Little Brown G, Indiana Hal, second in his first start; Ripplemite, Frisky Queen, trained here by Smith and second to Ohio Abbe and four other Fayette County juveniles, Honest Truth, Peggy Sage, Glen A. and Hodgens, owned by Kirk and Vallery and driven by McKinley Kirk. This race will open the meeting on Wednesday.

The stake for 2:22 trotters, one of the Friday program features, included among the 26 entries such consistent speedsters as Walter Michael's Eva's Boy which won here last year; Kirk & Vallery's Valdo Abbe, a winner at Marion this spring and Anitra Abbey, trained here by Harry Short.

Another youngster that has been attracting attention during the training period here, Harold Laymon's Hurley Belle, is among the 22 named for the stake for two-year-old trotters, the first race on the Thursday card. Most of these youngsters are untried in competition and must be appraised on the merits of their training, but Laymon's colt will have to go against two others trained here that have already faced the starter. Harry Short has had Prospero at the early big meets in the east and Bob Vallery took Gardenia to North Randall. Both stood up well under the preliminary tests.

Close behind comes the stake for 2:22 pacers, the opening event in the second day, with 21 entries and the stake for three-year-old pacers, another of Thursday's triple feature card, with 20 entries.

The 2:22 pace stake drew such standouts as Senator's Sister, a sister of the famous Senator Abbe, owned by Ote Lowen of

Race Program For Fair Is Most Ambitious Ever

The $10,000 race program set up for the Fayette County Fair next week is the most lucrative and ambitious ever offered here.

Featured by eight stakes and bolstered by four open class races, the speed committee is anticipating not only the greatest number of horses on the grounds in years, but also some of the best now campaigning.

The fixed value of the purses, for both stakes and open races, instead of the old "added money" sort is given credit for attracting many horsemen. However, the actual cash outlay by the board is figured to be far under the $10,000 total. Stakes and entrance fees are counted to meet much of the expense—in some of the races these payments are expected to meet most of the purse requirements and in some there may even be a surplus.

CONDITIONS

Class races to be three heats, the money to be divided equally each heat. Five monies, divided 45, 25, 15, 10 and 5 per cent. Two horses may start from the same stable or ownership. The United States Trotting Association rules to govern except where modified. Right reserved to change program or to declare off any event.

Nominators held for full amount of entry unless written notice of withdrawal is received. Two and three year olds changing gait may be transferred without additional cost. Right reserved to declare off any event, change order of program or reject any entry. All events with the exception of the two-year-olds will be raced on three-heat plan under the following conditions. (Two year olds to race on two-heat plan); 10 per cent will be set aside for the winner, balance divided into three equal parts and to be distributed 45, 25, 15, 10 and 5 per cent each heat. There must be six starters. U. S. T. A. rules except where modified.

Latin Tempos Overseas For Homesick Soldiers

NOGALES, Ariz.—Soldiers of Latin extraction scattered over the Pacific battlefronts will get a touch of home this summer when nine Mexican Mariachis tour that area with the USO.

Wilmington: the tough old Volario, already a winner this year, owned by C. H. Bowen of Columbus; Anti-Aircraft, back from racing in the east, in Harry Short's stable and Colonel Napoleon, owned by J. D. McIntyre of Michigan.

Counsel's Maid, a Grand Circuit winner already this season for Sanders Russell who has been bringing a string of hard-to-beat horses here from Alabama for several seasons; Jimmy Creed, another Grand Circuit performer that hit a 2 minute clip at Lexington last fall and Kirk and Vallery's Valdo Abbe, just back from the races at Marion, headline the two score star-studded entries in the three-year-old pace stake.

What the stake for three-year-old trotters lacks in numbers—there were 14 entries—is made up in quality and balance, members of the speed committee agree as they point to Lark, Carl Ross, a winner here last year, and Kirk and Vallery's Val Abbe.

A similar appraisal was made of the 14-horse list for the stake for 2:15 pacers. It is essentially the same field that will start, with the addition of two or three others, in the Ohio Pacing Derby to be raced at Wilmington two weeks after the Fair here.

Horsemen agree that the 2:04 bar pace stake has the fastest proven campaigners, any one of which could win.

Thursday's card is made up entirely of stakes. There is one $500 open class race on the Wednesday and Friday program and two on that for Saturday which will wind up with unusual and always interesting handicap pace and trot which puts horses of both gait on the track starting from different places back of the wire.

Joe McGraw of Washington, Pa., has been secured by the committee to act as starter. He is to come here from Cleveland where he served as one of the officials for the Grand Circuit meeting at North Randall.

O. C. Belt of Columbus, one of Ohio's most prominent harness horse racing authorities, will serve as the presiding judge again this year.

Final selection of the timers and associate judges has been deferred, Chairman Steen said, depending on their ability to serve. He indicated, however, that they probably would be the same as those who have occupied the judges' stand for the past several years. Heber Roe has been the head timer with Frank DeWitt and Jess Mad-dux as his assistants.

The current Mariachis, who in medieval times were the court serenaders, were recruited from six states on the Mexican west coast. The troupe was organized by Carl (Zeke) Curlee, secretary of the Nogales Chamber of Commerce, and has already been acclaimed by a GI audience at nearby Davis-Monthan Army Air Base.

The Mariachi ensemble consists of a singer, seven stringed instruments—three violins and four guitars—and a trumpet. Mariachi music is provincial, sentimental, gay and reckless. It is said Mariachi music will wake the dead, if the dead be from Jalisco state where it originated.

Curlee conceived the tour idea soon after Mexico's 201st Fighter Squadron shipped to the Philippines. Since Mexican consular records showed almost 12,000 Mexican nationals in the U. S. forces, while thousands of American GIs are of Mexican descent, Curlee convinced the businessmen of Nogales, Ariz., and Nogales, Mex., that they should partly finance the tour of the Mariachis. Curlee had some trouble selling the idea to the Mariachis. Traditionally home folk like all Latinos, they responded slowly to the offer, then jumped into it with typical Mexican gusto: "The war is no longer the impersonal thing it once appeared to us," they said. "We have brothers and cousins over there. This is the very least we can do."

DISCHARGE SCORING TO BE REVISED SOON

WASHINGTON, July 17—(P)—The new critical score for Army discharge, expected to be announced within the next two weeks, still will be based on points accumulated only up to last May 12.

War Department officials said today a new compilation of point totals, including those accumulated since last May, probably would be made late this year.

The new critical score will be lower than the 85 points set in the interim score announced this spring. This lower of the total score will make more soldiers eligible, on a point basis, for discharge even though they are unable to figure in new points earned since May 12.

LIGHTS ARE ON AGAIN

LONDON, July 17—(P)—Londoners celebrated until the early morning hours today as lights in the British capital went on full blast for the first time in nearly six years.

WHAT'S A FAIR WITHOUT HARNESS RACES? Here is a preview of what will be seen next week in front of the grandstand on Fayette County's Historic old Fairground. In this particular picture, which will be reenacted many times between July 24 and 28, are three reinsmen well known here—Harold R. Laymon, Ernie Smith and Slim Shilling—high-lining down the stretch to the finish wire. Laymon, who is driving Jerry M which he sold after last season, and Smith live in Washington C. H. Shilling, who trained here for several years, is now head trainer for Fairmeade Farms in Clinton County.

Director of Fair

George Steen has been a member of the Fair Board since the days of street fairs—in fact, practically since he came here from Wilmington in 1933. And, he's convinced the 1945 edition of the Fair will be the best Fair Fayette County ever has seen.

Getting back to the days before

George Steen

1933, he was in Wilmington for 13 years managing a women's wear and dry good store and before that was with Marshall Field in Jacksonville, Ill., for four years.

He was a Fair Board member in Clinton County before coming to Washington C. H. and confesses harness horse racing is his favorite part of any Fair. He is on the speed committee here and also serves on the grounds and advertising committees. Steen was president of the now-defunct Civic Association when the first Street Fairs were held here. He "grew up" with the board to the Fairs of the present.

Steen comes naturally by his love of horses for his father and brothers were trainers and breeders.

Capt. Richard Steen, his son, is in Nuremberg, Germany, now and his daughter, Mrs. Arnold D. Grillo, lives in Versailles. Steen is the manager of the Steen Dry Goods Company.

GERMANS LINED UP FOR FINGERPRINTING

WASHINGTON, July 17—(P)—An estimated 3,000,000 persons in the American occupation zone in Germany are going to be fingerprinted, Col. Orlando W. Wilson, chief of public safety in the internal affairs division of the United States group, said today.

The United States will undertake within its occupation zone the fingerprinting "of every German who, in our eyes, is a criminal," said Wilson.

UNKNOWN HEROINE SHRINE PROPOSED FOR ARLINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 17—(P)—A shrine to the "Unknown Heroine of World War II" was proposed today.

Rep. Wasieleski (D-Wis.) introduced legislation authorizing such a memorial in Arlington National Cemetery.

He described it as proper recognition of the "services and sacrifices at home and abroad" of America's women.

TO POLICE FAIR

Orland Hays

Sheriff Orland (Tubby) Hays is to be in charge of all the police at the Fair. There will be special deputies on the Fairgrounds.

The American Legion's Auxiliary State Highway Patrol will keep traffic moving on the highways and streets leading to the Fairgrounds. A rigid policy of no parking to clog autos on the way to and from the grounds will be carried out this year, it was emphasized.

WORDS AND MUSIC

AURORA, Ill.—(P)—Lieut. Max Augustine said it with music at his recent marriage to Corinne Pauly. During the wedding ceremony, a baritone sang a song the Navy officer had composed while at sea five weeks earlier. It was titled: "God Gave Me You."

166 Horses Nominated For Fair's Stake Races

The list of horses entered in the eight $1,000 stakes to be raced at the Fair here starting next Wednesday afternoon, stands as black and white evidence of the quality of the speed program.

Carrying a more-than-average number of entries, 166 in all, the card has attracted horses from the Grand Circuit because of the size of purses offered. Because it is the first major Fair in the state, horsemen considered this in the light of a proving ground.

George A. Steen, chairman of the race committee, said only eight horses had been withdrawn and, he added, that this was significant and an indication not only of a desire of horsemen to race here but also of the keen competition that may logically be expected. In addition, the program carries four open class races with $500 purses.

Here is the imposing list of nominations of trotters and pacers for the Fair's eight stake races:

FAIR CATTLE SHOW TO HAVE ADDED LOCAL COLOR

PARADE PLANNED THIS YEAR AS SOMETHING NEW

Three Beef and Two Dairy Breeds Expected To Be Represented

Fayette County farmers are going to get a good opportunity—possibly the best they ever had—to see the kind of cattle their neighbors raise when they take in the cattle show at the Fair this year.

This was the expressed belief of Sam Marting, director in charge of this department, as he outlined the prospects for the show.

There was some confusion and uncertainty created by wartime travel and gasoline rationing. But there was no doubt in the mind of the director about the possibilities of what he termed the showing of local cattle.

In brief he summed up the outlook by saying: "We are wanting and expecting a big show."

And, Sam Marting is not given to exaggerations when it comes to the Fair.

He said frankly that it was too early yet to know how many exhibitors would come here from outside the county. Letters inviting every one of them who showed stock here last year have gone out, however. Some have replied, Marting said, indicating they hoped to return to the shows this year, but were waiting for a clarification of ODT and OPA regulations. Personally, he said, he expected most of them to come here. Last year, show herds of several breeds, both beef and dairy, came here from over a radius of 100 miles and many are expected to return.

But neither Marting nor others of the committee feel the show will suffer to any great extent if travel restrictions cut down the entries from a distance. For, they point out, increased interest in cattle among breeders in the county is sufficient to develop a good show within wartime limits.

Herds of all three major beef breeds are expected. The Hereford, the committee believes will be most numerous, but they are counting on Angus from the Hagler farms here in the county and the Smith and Hutchison farms in Madison and Greene counties for the nucleus of the showing of this breed. The hope was expressed that Dr. O. W. House would show some of his Shorthorns because, it was pointed out, he not only is a comparative newcomer in the field but also has acquired some of the most fashionably bred stock for the foundation.

Representatives from several herds of Guernsey and Jersey dairy cattle, including the Willis Grove Farm's Jersey herd from

ST. PETERSBURG ENJOYS RAIN OF NEWSPAPERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — When it rains here every one gets an evening Independent free. The paper's offer, made originally on Sept. 10, 1910, has stood since then, with an average of less than four and a half papers, a year being given away.

For regular paid-in-advance subscriptions a record is kept and each time the sunless days add up to six, each subscriber's credit is advanced a week.

Street "sales" on rainy days are free too.

St. Petersburg, as you might have guessed, calls itself the "sunshine city."

IS THIS TRIP, ETC?

BRAINTREE, England — (AP) — Because his hired man was frightened of subway trains Vivian Kaye Ostrer was fined $10 for the misuse of gasoline. Ostrer said he was driving his car because when he had taken his hired man to London he refused to take a subway back.

which went the $1,300 top cow of the Memorial Day sale near Springfield, are expected to show.

Dairy breeds are to be shown in the ring Thursday morning and the beef breed are to be shown Wednesday afternoon.

A note in the Fair catalog brought to light an innovation that has had but little publicity. It said:

"All cattle will appear in the livestock parades in front of the grandstand."

L. P. McCann, an authority on cattle at Ohio State University, is to be the judge.

All the cattle are to be in place in the barns by 6 P. M. Tuesday. In addition to the parades, which are considered by board members as a big forward step for the Fair, the cattle will be in their stalls for inspection throughout the rest of the week.

Director of Fair

A Hereford cow, steaming down the Ohio on a river boat with a "To Sam Marting" label on her over a decade ago became the foundation of the Bea-Mar herd. Marting was living in Ripley then and the cow, Lena Fairfax, was a gift from his uncle, a doctor, who took her as payment on a bill. He wrote Marting he could have the animal if he would pay the freight down the river from Iron-ton.

That was an investment he never regretted because he likes breeding Herefords so much that "I wouldn't want to do anything else." He's glad he switched from Jersey cattle which were his pride in his 4-H Club days.

He first came to Fayette County from Ripley 11 years ago—to see a 4-H Club Show. He and his grandfather, S. C. Beasley bought a farm from Edwin Jones and stayed. He, his wife and two children, Sam and Esther, live on that farm now, the Bea-Mar Farm (Bea for Beasley and Mar for Marting) on the CCC Highway six miles from town.

He comes by his prize-winning cattle naturally, because he has won enough blue ribbons with cattle to paper a house. "I've got enough ribbons to supply the Fair for 50 years," Marting said.

On the Fair Board for five years, he is on the livestock, grounds and premium book committees.

HISTORIC PAINTING TO BE AT GREENVILLE

GREENVILLE, O., July 17—(AP) —A $20,000 painting of the "Signing of the Treaty of Greenville" will go on display here Aug. 3 as a climax to a five-day celebration marking the 150th anniversary of the treaty.

The original document, depicted in Howard Chandler Christy's canvas, also will be on display, borrowed from the National Archives in Washington and shown under special army, navy and marine guard.

The treaty, signed by Gen. "Mad Anthony" Wayne and 12 Indian tribes, ended Indian war in the northwest territory and opened it to colonists.

Telephone Service Handy at Fair

The Ohio Bell Telephone Company's telephone trailer is coming back to the Fayette County Fair this year.

This means that crowds at the Fair will not wait in line to use the telephone, for the trailer is equipped with three private booths with facilities for adding more telephones if they are needed. A special switchboard, to be operated by regular operators at the exchange here, is included in the outfit.

An unusual feature of the trailer, according to Fred Rost, Ohio Bell commercial manager here, is that visitors to the Fair are furnished incoming as well as outgoing telephone service.

HE BEEFED ABOUT IT

MANILA — (AP) — All day long a Coast Guardsman loaded sides of beef into a landing barge. At first they were light as pork chops, but as the day lengthened they became as heavy as millstones. Tugging at the last quarter of beef, the Coast Guardsman grunted: "Whatever became of those meatless Tuesdays."

Incoming calls will be received at the Fair secretary's office. Boy Scouts will be the page the individual called and tell him to go to the telephone trailer, where he can call his home or office to get the message.

B. C. Frazier, from the Ohio Bell public relations department in Cleveland, who will be in charge of the unit, has been bringing the trailer to the Fair since its first appearance here in 1939.

The Ohio Bell has also rented space in the lobby of the Merchants' Building, where an exhibit of the telephone company's postwar plans for rural telephone service will be installed. The display will show the reasons for the present restrictions on telephone service and what the company plans to do to provide telephones for the farmer after the war.

BRAZIL WATER SHORTAGE BRINGS OUT THE JOKES

RIO DE JANEIRO — (AP) — Fun-loving Brazilians even laughed in the face of a temporary but marked water shortage in this city. Such jokes as these made the rounds:

"Propercio is ill... What's the matter? ... Water on the knee. ... Oh, surely the doctor's mistaken."

"Strawberries have a double value now ... How so? ... I just have to look at them and my mouth waters."

"I had a funny dream last night. I thought I had been knighted by King George of England ... Ah, I know ... a Knight of the Bath!"

Rio columnist Cyrano wound up his observations on the water shortage: "Everything in this world has its compensatory factor, even the water shortage. Finally we can drink milk that has not been watered." But another wit answered: "That's why there's a milk shortage too. There's no water to dilute it with."

THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT THEY WANTED TO KNOW

SHELBYVILLE, Ky. — (AP) — Burglars spotted this sign under a wall safe in the office of a bottling company. "This safe contains records only. All money is in the vault." So the culprits cut the 400-pound vault loose and fled with it — and $400.

EXTRAORDINARY STORY FROM FAIR 80 YEARS AGO

LOST BOY FOUND $20 BILL THAT CHANGED LIFE

Echo of Story on Finding Old Coins on Former Fairgrounds

An extraordinary incident that took place during one of those early Fairs on the Old Fairground in Washington C. H. more than 80 years ago, has come to light and is particularly apropos at the present time in view of the Fayette County Fair next week.

The story is an echo of a recent article carried in the "Meandering Column" of the Record-Herald, regarding the presence of large numbers of old coins that were lost on the Old Fairgrounds over a period of more than three-quarters of a century, during Fairs and circuses on the grounds and some of which may come to light as the grounds are graded for streets and alleys and as basements for houses are dug in the new addition to the city.

The unusual story comes from Mrs. Clara Siebern, widow of Ed Siebern and mother of Charles Siebern and Mrs. Beryl Cavine, who makes her home with her son. Mrs. Siebern was a very small girl when the incident took place that virtually changed the life of her older brother, Lindley, who later was a physician in Sinking Springs, Ohio, and Norwalk, California. Mrs. Siebern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John House, with the entire family, went to the Fayette County Fair during the Civil War days.

John House held a subscriber's ticket, which afforded special privileges to himself and family.

The horse was unhitched from the vehicle and placed in a barn while the family joined neighbors and other friends for a day of enjoyment at the Fair.

In those days the attractions were few compared with the present day offerings at fairs. There were the usual freak shows and other shows, but the midway attractions were limited. However they were just as interesting to the folks in those days as the present day offering is to the average fair goer.

As the family mingled with the throng of village and rural folks on the Fairgrounds, Lindley became separated from the remainder of the family and was soon hopelessly lost in the crowd.

On the way to the gate he picked up a piece of paper that had a "pretty picture" on it and he was still clutching this in his hand when he arrived at the gate and sought to pass through.

One of the gatekeepers, seeing the little fellow all alone, halted him and started questioning him.

Noticing the paper clutched in Lindley's hand, one of the gatekeepers asked him what he had.

"A pretty picture" promptly replied the little boy and showed the paper.

It was a $20 bill.

The gatekeepers became interested immediately, learned the boy's name, located his family, and after a day of unusual pleasure at the Fair, the family returned home.

Lindley's parents invested the $20 in sheep for their small son and within a few years the investment had increased so that a yoke of oxen was purchased from the proceeds.

These oxen helped plow the fields, haul logs to the mill, pull farm produce to the city and frequently were called upon to pull wagons from the muddy Miami Trace Road.

At that time the House family lived where Harold Mark now has his hybrid seed corn storage and dryer building.

As the years went on the oxen

Midway's View of Fair By Voice of Experience

'This Is Your Fair, Be There,' Says Buck Saunders Who Has Had a Lifetime Career in Show Business

(Editor's Note: In an article written especially for the Fair Edition of the Record-Herald, Ora (Buck) Saunders has set down the impressions of the county fair held by those back stage, so to speak, along the long familiar Midway.

"Buck," as he is known to hundreds in and out of show business and almost from coast to coast, has been following a career in the amusement field ever since he was a little boy here in Washington C. H. He started out with the circus and, during the colorful and exciting years that followed, he has had his fling at nearly everything from sideshows up and down the Midway. One of the highlights of his career came during the Chicago's World Fair when he ballyhooed one of its biggest and most popular attractions built around a group of midgets. More recently he was with the F. E. Gooding Company in the more prosaic role of booking and publicity agent. Right now he and Mrs. Saunders are taking a between-seasons rest at their home here. But they intend to get back in show business soon.

He has seen and been a part of county fairs all over the country. He knows the "backstage" view from personal experience.

What Buck Saunders has to say about the County Fair follows:)

By ORA "BUCK" SAUNDERS

County Fairs are held each year throughout the entire United States and many of them last but two or three days. Of course our Fayette County Fair runs five days, beginning July 24, and operating daily through the 28. Thus in five days the public is invited to see the finished product of a full year of planning. At frequent intervals the Fair Board holds meetings and all members are required to be there.

The purpose of these meetings is to discuss the various departments, consult with experts sent out by the state and federal governments for the purpose of making taught her by the 4-H Club or some other worthwhile organization. It gives the junior groups an opportunity to hob-nob with their elders and exchange ideas which are beneficial to both.

The County Fair is strictly American and most people look forward to it, as though it were Christmas, Thanksgiving and the Fourth of July rolled into one. Let us not disillusion ourselves, the County Fairs are the show windows of our agricultural efforts and mean much to all, especially farmers, upon whom we greatly depend to win the war.

Special attention is always directed to the Midway where the F. E. Gooding Amusement Company presents 50 different amusements, including the very latest in streamlined riding devices, modern shows and clean concessions. Gooding left the farm over 30 years ago to enter the amusement business. He followed in the footsteps of an uncle who had spent 50 years of his life in the amusement field, and had built an enviable reputation for dependability, fair dealings and clean entertainment.

F. E. Gooding started with a merry-go-round and Ferris wheel and an idea firmly embedded in his mind that was to give the people the most economical form of entertainment that the entire family could afford and enjoy. The policy has never been changed and with it he has risen to be the largest individual ride operator in the entire world always keeping abreast of the times with the very latest streamline rides.

The Gooding shows and rides will be on the Midway here and unless you take advantage of them you are missing a real thrill.

Another thing, remember, . . . the Fair Board consists of farmers and businessmen who work in the interest of the Fair without pay and their only satisfaction is in the advancement of the entire

GRANGE DISPLAY TO FEATURE WAR FARM ACTIVITY

Ingenuity of Each Grange Will Determine Style of Individual Shows

Each of the six subordinate Granges in Fayette County will have a display booth at the Fair, Loren Hynes, county deputy, said today.

There are no rules and regulations—the nature of the display is left up to the individuality and ingenuity of each Grange. There is not much competition, for each Grange showing a creditable display will receive a $50 War Bond. An extra $5 is set aside for the Grange best representing agriculture's part in the war program.

Before the war year Fairs came, each Grange exhibit was judged according to a score card—but now the only standard to which the Granges must measure up is showing what it does toward the war effort.

All entries must be in place by 6 P. M., July 24. Forest Shade, Selden, Madison Good Will, Marshall, Good Hope and Fayette Granges each will make a display. The Pomona Grange is not eligible for a display.

Because of the Grange's important work in the county's agriculture and of its past record, and because of farmers' extra-busy wartime schedules, the cut-and-dried display rules have been eliminated. At the same time, the Fair Board felt having no Grange exhibits at all would detract considerably from the value of the agricultural department, so the system of having purely original displays was established.

SEWING MACHINES AGAIN FOR HOME SEAMSTRESSES

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—All restrictions on the production of sewing machines for domestic use were lifted today.

In taking the action, the War Production Board cautioned that it would not mean any great increase in the number of sewing machines reaching retail channels within the next few months.

Secretary of Fair

It's the old story about the country boy who made good in the city that applies to Frank E. Ellis, the Fair Board secretary.

He was born in Clinton County, but has lived in Fayette County ever since he was two years old. He grew up on a farm on the Plymouth Pike at Frog Lane and went to the old Buckeye School in Jasper Township.

The Mallow Farm, the home of the famous pacer Major Mallow poraneously, so to speak. More than once he has taken the microphone at the Fair for important announcements and, on occasions, has called the progress of the races. He's the Fair Board's handyman as well as its secretary.

He came to town in 1914 to take a job as clerk in the Leo Katz Store. Later he and Miss Clara Gross opened the Ellis & Gross Store and then he branched out on his own with the Frank Ellis & Co. men's haberdashery. That went down in the depression and he took to the road as a traveling salesman for the Washington Candy Co. covering four states. Back in the clothing business again, he managed the Levy Store for 2½ years. Seven years ago, he joined the advertising staff of the Record-Herald selling classified advertising. Since then he has worked his way up steadily and now holds the position of promotion manager.

Mrs. Ellis, as the secretary's secretary, takes much of the detail Fair work off his shoulders. Her interest in the Fair is second only to that of her husband.

His weakness is youngsters. He is never too busy to talk to them and at the Fair he is never far from one or more. His only daughter is now grown and married. She is Mrs. Donabelle Gall. She and her husband, Capt. Thomas G. Gall, a veteran of the South Pacific war, are now at Little Rock, Ark., where Capt. Gall is stationed at Camp Joseph T. Robinson.

who started the three Mallow brothers, Wert, Carl and Roy, on careers in the harness horse racing sport, was just over the fence. As a kid, Frank climbed over it so often that he became "like a little brother" to the Mallow boys. And, that's where he cultivated a love for harness horses that to this day is his big interest. That was in the days when farmers liked good road horses. "Old Ned," his dad's gray horse he drove around the countryside and into town once in a while, was a hard one to beat when he and the other farmers hooked on the road. That only whetted his love of racing.

Before he became secretary two years ago, his interest in the Fair was its race program. He always has been a member of the speed committee. But now that he's the secretary, he can't be partial. Besides, he is so busy in the office that he gets to see only a few heats. He knows most of the horses, owners and drivers of the fair circuit by their first names and follows them in spirit all season. Once, at a matinee meeting, he filled in as starter in an emergency and did a very credible job. Everyone said so.

Night Fair to Feature Variety Entertainment

STARS OF RADIO TO TAKE STAGE ON FOUR NIGHTS

Novelty Show Featuring Horses and Dogs Put in Middle of Program

The greatest array of variety entertainment ever assembled in Washington C. H. in a five-day period has been booked for the Night Fair here next week.

That is the firm and deep-seated conviction of the Fair Board.

Every one of the attractions has a national reputation, not to say a national following, through appearances over the country's most important radio hook-ups.

So important did the board consider the selection of attractions for the Night Fair that the task was not delegated to a committee. No decisions were made without concurrence of the entire directorate.

Dozens of troupes sought a spot on the week's program; for the reputation of success and class of Fayette County's Night Fair had spread far and wide through the entertainment world during the last few years.

With so many top flight entertainments open, the board took weeks to come to its decisions. In the end, the five it considered best were booked.

Jamboree For Opener

The Night Fair is to be opened next Tuesday night with the Boone County Jamboree of WLW fame under the flood lights on the temporary stage in the race track in front of the grandstand.

The Cornhuskers Jamboree from WKRC follows on Wednesday night.

Headliners for Thursday night's "Hello Neighbors" show will be Lulu Belle and Scotty.

For Friday, the board moved out of the radio field to book what it believed to be such an outstanding show that it could not be passed up—Buck Steele's Marvel Horse Troupe.

And, the National Barn Dance, plus the Graham Western Riders known from coast to coast, will close the Fair Saturday night.

Fireworks Display

Besides all this, each night's show is to be brought to a booming and dazzling close with a fireworks display. The set pieces, which are to be few by comparison, are to be in front of the grandstand, but the bigger and more spectacular aerial displays are to be shot into the black of the night at such an angle that they may be seen from any point of vantage on the grounds.

Entertainers who are known almost intimately in every household in the Midwest are to come here with Boone County Jamboree. It will be like a visit from old friends for most of them have been here before. For the past several years, the Boone County Jamboree has opened the Night Fair here.

Making up the cast of this hillbilly unit are such favorites as the Buccaneers and Dolly Good, the Trailblazers, Roy Starkey, Lee Morgan, Penny Woodford, Grandpappy Doolittle, Alton Delmore and the Brown's Ferry Four, the Johnson Twins, Harpo and Tiny and Cal Fortune. And then there also will be little Jimmy Dickens, a comparative newcomer who has never been to the Fair here before although he has won a place for himself in the home of thousands of radio listeners.

Bradley Kincaid, who is to head the Corn Huskers Jamboree, is considered an authority on folk songs of the mountains.

Playing his own guitar accompaniment, he has popularized these songs, many long forgotten until he dug them out from deep in the mountains. He also has composed several in the same vein himself.

Lulu Belle and Scotty Just a few vital statistics attest the popularity of the Hello Neighbors show, a branch of the National Barn Dance, which features Lulu Belle and Scotty. Lulu Belle made her first Barn Dance appearance in 1929 and seven years later was chosen "Queen" by Radio Guide readers in competition with nationally known feminine stars. She also has been featured in a number of movies by Republic and Paramount. Scotty, a native of North Carolina, went to Chicago's WLS in 1931 after a radio apprenticeship as program director of WMMN. He was a quick hit at WLS and soon teamed up with Lulu Belle. They were married in 1935 and have a son and daughter. As Scott Wiseman, the boy in rural North Carolina, his hobby was playing the guitar and harmonica for square dances. He spends his spare time now with Lulu Belle thinking up new POLLY JENKINS and her Plowboys, with Uncle Dan, are among the headliners of the National Barn Dance which will close the Night Fair on Saturday.

Durkee Is Coming Back To Handle Fair Tickets

Warren M. Durkee, former Sunnyside School principal and at present principal of the Lockland High School, will again be in charge of the tickets at the Fayette County Fair and the gate and grandstand admissions.

Durkee has held this place for several years and considers fair week as a vacation from the routine of school teaching.

This year several of the boys who have worked the gates are away in the armed services and must be replaced according to plans now being completed. And since Durkee will not come here until the week of the fair, stunts to pester their colleagues and writing new songs.

Dog and Horse Show

Buck Steele's Marvel Horse Troupes—the show the Fair directors just could not pass up—features trick and fancy riding and roping, high jumping horses, trained dogs, Liberty horses, Australian whip crackers, clown mules, Roman chariot races and "many other acts too numerous to mention."

The equine star of the show is Diamond Snip, described by Steele as "America's finest trained horse." Sharing the spotlight with him, however, will be the horse that jumps over car.

Many a time when the armed forces, the Treasury Department, the Red Cross and other organizations wanted some special attraction to emphasize a wartime activity, it was the National Barn Dance from Chicago's WLS that got first call. It was this background that largely influenced the board to book it for the Night Fair climax.

Youthful Western Riders

As an added attraction the Saturday night program was expanded to include the Graham Riders, a group of youngsters—ten brothers and sisters—who can do trick roping and riding with the best regardless of age. Crowds have been packing grandstands to see the Graham Riders, not only because of their compelling youth, but because in their gala costumes they have got what is commonly known as oomph.

A pioneer in this type of radio entertainment, the National Barn Dance is celebrating its 21st anniversary this season with a galaxy of new stars of comedy, song, dance and novelty.

applications for jobs as ticket sellers at the gate and grandstand may be given to the Fair Treasurer Harold Craig. To handle the crowds at least 20 ticket sellers and takers are needed and these include boys for the outside, men on the gates and young women helpers in office.

The ticket management is one of the most particular jobs at the Fair, since federal and state taxes must be computed and a complete set of records kept for inspectors. Durkee is especially adept at the work and according to his own words he "gets a thrill out of seeing folks at the Fair and helping make the Fayette County Fair a success."

NO POULTRY AND RABBIT EXHIBITS

Lack of Interest Means No Entries at Fair

It's not the black market in poultry, but lack of interest on the part of poultry raisers, as well as rabbit raisers, that will be responsible for no poultry and rabbit exhibits at the Fayette County Fair this year.

Interest in poultry seems to have been dwindling for many years and interest in rabbits, which are grown by many persons, also seems to be lacking this year, so no departments were created by Fair Board.

Some of the younger poultrymen are in the armed forces and this also has taken away interest in the department.

POPULAR VOTE TO PUT SPICE IN PHOTO DISPLAYS

Competition Open To All Cameramen and Women During the Fair

Something new has been added to the photographic exhibit at the Fair this year.

The "something new" is a popular vote system by which the general public viewing the pictures can select its favorite on the basis of general appeal. The results of the voting as compared to the decision of the judges is expected to be interesting.

Two judges, both prominent pictorialists from Columbus and acclaimed as competent judges of the merits of the pictures entered, will select the winning photographs Sunday, July 22, when the entries are previewed and judged at the Hotel Washington. All entries must be at the hotel by 10 A. M., July 22.

While the photographic exhibit is planned under the wing of the Camera Club here, Mrs. Gilbert Adams, superintendent, emphasized strongly the fact that pictures can be entered by anyone, whether or not he is a member of the club.

Prints entered must be eight by ten inches or larger and mounted on 16 by 20 mount boards. The name of the entrant and the class in which the print is to be entered are to be on the back of the mount board in the upper left hand corner. The title of the picture and the name of the entrant is to be placed on the front of the board.

The classes are pictorial portrait, children, farm buildings in Fayette County, Fayette County livestock, farm activities in Fayette County, table-tops and still-life, candid and sports, animals, landscape and general pictorial.

Director of Fair

The first three years of the war took some of the joy out of George L. Gossard's membership on the Fair Board, but that is all over now. His weakness is fireworks, and he frankly admits it. He was very glum when the taboo was put on them during the early

During the eight years he served as Fair secretary, he held the role of "watchdog of the treasury," putting the brakes on impractical ideas with a slow spoken recital of income and outgo figures in his booming bass voice. He surrendered the secretaryship, which he took on for the street carnival prelude to the Fair, two years ago to Frank Ellis when it became such a job that he couldn't handle his own work at the Gossard Jewelry Store. For a month before the Fair, the store was so filled with coming and going concessionaires and exhibitors that the customers were crowded back. Mrs. Gossard, too, put in long hours as the secretary's secretary when he held the post.

Now he devotes his time and energies to the displays in the horticultural building and under the grandstand.

His biggest thrill came several years ago when all the youngsters from the Children's Home were guests at the Fair. They rode on everything that would move and took in all the shows. He went with them every time and every place.

The Gossards have one son, Sgt. Stuart Gossard, in the AAF for nearly three years. They live on South Main Street where "Petey's" garden provides him with material for many tall stories.

George L. Gossard

stages of the war. When it was found that they could be had this year without any interference with the war effort he was very happy.

He likes pyrotechnics himself, the louder and brighter the better, and he is convinced others do too. He refers to the gate receipts of prewar Fairs to back up his contention that fireworks make a good night feature. That's what they are again this year. He liked nothing better than to set off those big aerial bombs that thundered the opening of afternoon and night sessions. Sometimes he managed to give a bang-up closing salute too.

Known to his close friends and Board members as "Petey" he likes the Fair as well as the next one and is "just glad of the opportunity it affords to help build up the community and give the folks something where they can have some fun once a year."

BIGGER FLOWER DISPLAY SEEN FOR 1945 FAIR

Weather Last Year Hampered Horticulturists With Eye On Ribbons

A bigger and better display of flowers is anticipated when the Fayette County Fair opens July 24, Miss Clara Zimmerman, beginning her fourth year as superintendent of the department, said today.

The dry weather last year kept the quality of the flowers down somewhat, Miss Zimmerman recalled, but she has no doubt about the number or excellence of the entries this year.

There are three new classes established for the big 1945 Fair—an arrangement of wild carrots, natural or colored; an arrangement in pottery and a display of flowers in a vase and fruit in a dish on any kind of tray. Miss Zimmerman expressed a hope for more than a few entries in each of the new classes, as well as a nice representation in the old favorites which have become well established throughout the years.

Miss Zimmerman explained the flower display would be in the agricultural building and would, as in the past, be made on tables in the center aisle. She said she liked the centralization of similar displays in definite buildings, also.

Entries in the 53 classes must be made by July 21, at 10 A. M. and flowers are to be delivered to the Fairgrounds not later than 11 A. M. Wednesday. Exhibits are to be arranged and entry cards attached when they are delivered. Only one exhibit in a class by any one individual will be permitted.

All prizes will be awarded in war stamps and bonds. There are three prizes in each class.

Five Breeds of Sheep Will Be Shown at Fair

CLASSES SET UP IN VARIETY TO BRIGHTEN SHOW

County Shepherds' Club Lends Hand in Arrangements And List of Awards

Fayette County's sheep industry will be well represented at the Fair next week.

Ever since most of Fayette County was cleared of the virgin forest, and the wolves and other wild animals that preyed upon the farmers' livestock were killed, sheep raising has been an important part of farming.

Production of sheep has fluctuated greatly in this community, due to various reasons, but throughout the years there has always been many thousands of sheep in the county, and part of the time the number has reached into the tens of thousands.

A great deal of wealth has come into the county in recent years from the sale of lambs, sheep and wool and the wool clip each year is worth a sizeable fortune.

Walter Finlay, director of the sheep department of the Fair, is expecting an unusually good exhibit in this branch of livestock.

Finlay is with the Producers Stock Yards and is one of the best versed sheep buyers in this part of Ohio.

There will be classes for five breeds of sheep — Corriedales, Dorsets, Shropshires, Southdowns and Suffolks.

There will be nine classes, including aged ram, yearling ram, ram lamb, yearling ewe, ewe lamb, pen of three yearling ewes, pen of lambs, exhibitors' flock, champion ram and champion ewe.

The Fayette County Shepherds' Club will cooperate in helping make this important branch of the livestock exhibit, one of the best ever held at the Fair. The club offers a trophy cup to the exhibitor of the best ram, of any age, of each breed.

Rams eligible to show for these trophies must be owned by a resident of Fayette County.

The winners' name will be engraved on the trophies and such trophies remain in the winner's possession until the following Fair. Each trophy must be won three times before the exhibitor may retain permanent possession of the trophy.

In addition the Shepherds' Club offers a trophy cup to the best pen of lambs of any breed of grade breeding, exhibited by a resident of Fayette County. This cup must be won three times before the exhibitor can retain permanent possession.

The big sheep exhibit will be in the sheep barns "on the hill" and will attract a liberal share of public attention in the livestock department.

BUT NO NIGHTMARE

DOVER, England — (AP) — It looked like an old German dream come true when Dover flew Nazi flags and military policemen directed traffic wearing swastikas. But it was no Nazi invasion—some of the "Red Devils" of the 6th Airborne Division had returned to Dover to deck it with their captured flags and signs.

Director of Fair

Things agricultural are the life blood of Ralph Nisley. That's one of the reasons he is considered one of the most reliable members of the Fayette County Fair Board. As a farmer boy, he had dreams of the fabulous life in the big cities and ambitious to become ship and settled down on the farm. Considered one of the county's best practical farmers, he always has "kept ahead of his work" to give him time to participate actively in rural community life and agricultural organizations. An ardent Grange member, he served 13 years as the county deputy master, the highest office in the county, and has been on the state executive board of the Grange for eight years.

His interests in the Fair are over-all but he gives his personal attention to the Grange displays, always arguing for a more conspicuous place to set them up, and the premium book.

He and Mrs. Nisley have three daughters, Mrs. Everett Overturn of Vandergrift, Pa., Mrs. Robert Baker of Dayton whose husband is in the service and Miss Martha who lives with her parents in their farm home on the Nisley Road in Jasper Township.

WHISKEY FOR HIS ASTHMA? NO, JUST FOR WEAKNESS

RALEIGH, N. C. — (AP) — City Judge Paul C. West has found, he says, the first defendant ever to tell the truth about whisky. The defendant, charged with public drunkenness, admitted he was drunk and said, he'd bought the whisky because he has asthma.

"Yes," said the judge, "I know how good whisky is for asthma." Then the defendant popped up with: "No sir, judge. Whisky's no good for asthma. I just drank it in a moment of weakness." The judge let the defendant off with the court costs.

In England authorized lotteries were established as early as 1569 and from 1709 to 1824 the Government annually raised large sums by lotteries.

FIREWORKS AT FAIR ARE FIRST IN TWO YEARS

FIVE DAY SHOW IS SCHEDULED FOR THIS YEAR

Spectacles and Noise Keynote Of Displays; Government OK's Their Use

After two years without fireworks, they will return to the Fayette County Fair—and with a government sanction.

Instead of just two nights of pyrotechnic displays as was the custom in past years, there will be a show every night. George L. Gossard, whose love of the fair is the fireworks, is enthusiastic about the shows which will be in store.

"There's going to be plenty of noise and some spectacular pieces as well," Gossard said.

The material used in the fireworks are not needed by the War Department, it was pointed out.

The display will begin each night after the show in front of the grandstand is over. Instead of erecting the framework for the ground displays and setting off the aerial pieces right in front of the grandstand, the fireworks will be displayed to the left of the grandstand. "We figure the people who pay to get in the gate can see it from the midway without going into the grandstand," Gossard explained.

All the old favorites will be there—the Niagara Falls display, the battleship fight and rockets and bombs—plus many new and patriotic pieces which have been brought out recently, Gossard said.

He and his son, M-Sgt. Stuart Gossard, will help shoot off the fireworks. A man and woman from the Hudson Fireworks Display Company will come too.

They will construct all the ground pieces in the quarterstretch—the largest pieces are put on frameworks to make patterns. Part of one building is to be set aside for storing the big display.

The two flowers most constantly used in perfume are orange blossoms and jasmine.

Director of Fair

"I just get a kick out of it, but I don't know how I came to be on the board," so says R. Burris Tharp of his Fair directorship.

If there is any uncertainty in his mind, however, his is the only one; for his fellow board members can, and do, give many reasons. He has been a director since the revival in 1935.

Bud, as he is better known to almost everyone, is a city boy from

R. Burris Tharp the sidewalk up. He was born in Washington C. H. and has lived here ever since, with the exception of a few brief intervals, most important of which was his service in the Army during the first World War.

Concessions are his specialty on the Fair Board. And, he handles the job with a background of varied experience. There's nothing he likes better than the gaudy and raucous Midway with its colorful sideshows, noisy rides and the incessant chatter of the barkers.

He first learned about concessions the hard way—by handling the carnivals sponsored periodically by the American Legion Post here. After getting tangled up in some of the doubletalk with touring shows in those early days right after the last war, he learned how to bargain and short-cut. Now he sticks to the solid and reputable outfits such as the Gooding Amusement Co. to build the framework for his Midway and fills in with the smaller private concessions. He has found that it pays in the long run to deal with those he knows and in whom he has confidence. Through the years he has come to know nearly every concessionaire personally and has little trouble in building up his entertainment features of the Fair.

An active Legionnaire, having served as post commander and adjutant years on end, he reached the peak when he was elected state treasurer. He likes people and belongs to several organizations, including the Lions Club and Elks Lodge.

He has been in the insurance and credit business and was chief deputy in the office of Probate Court. Last month he took over a restaurant on the corner of Main and Market streets. Here he turned the tables by using his Fair experience. He is a confirmed bachelor.

NO FAIR BOOTH FOR CHILDREN OF COUNTY HOME

Individual Entries To Mark Their Contribution to 1945 Fair

The Fayette County Children's Home probably will not be represented by a booth at the Fair this year, David Whiteside, superintendent said.

The half-hundred youngsters there will have a chance to make entries in classes open to them, however, Whiteside explained. Much the same system was used last year when the boys and girls entered their vegetables, livestock and fancy-work in those departments of the Fair.

There was a Children's Home booth at the Fair two years ago. Embroidered work done by the girls plus canned foods and samples of garden vegetables were displayed in the agricultural building, formerly the Merchant's Building.

The farm products grown on the home farm are as carefully cultivated and nurtured by the boys as by any other farmer who planned to exhibit some of his crops at the Fair. And the prize vegetables selected are cleaned with the same loving care the girls put into the embroidering and hemstitching.

And those children bring home the bacon—in the form of ribbons and premiums. They get a chance to compare their work with that of others and at the same time learn the self-satisfaction that comes inevitably to every prize winner, whether it be the owner of a grand-champion sheep or the baker of the best chocolate cake.

FAIR SWINE SHOW TO INCLUDE ALL LEADING BREEDS

NEW TYPE HOGS TO BE FEATURE OF FAIR EXHIBIT

Many Classes Arranged To Give Breeders Chance To Share in Premiums

For generations pure bred hogs have been synonymous with Fayette County and this is sure to be reflected in the swine exhibited at the Fayette County Fair.

When the first hardy pioneers came into Fayette County, cleared small tracts of land, built their log cabins and carried their guns while at work to ward off the Indians and kill wild game, they found the region infested with "razor back" swine and the wild boars a formidable foe when angered.

The only "red points" involved in obtaining plenty of pork in those days, without cost other than for powder and a lead bullet from the hunter's long, muzzle loading rifle were the red-pointed hunting knives used in bleeding the wild hogs after they were slain.

However, like other large wild animals and the wild pigeons, the wild hogs were killed off, and coming to take their place were many breeds of swine, some of which were brought to perfection in Fayette County during the last three-quarters of a century.

Throughout the years the raising of high grade hogs has been the pride of large numbers of livestock men in the community and for more than a half century some of the choicest of the breeds have been exhibited at the Fayette County Fair.

Baldwin Rice is director of the swine department at the Fair and is expecting a good exhibit of the leading breeds in the community. There is an entry fee of 10 per cent of the first prize and competition is open to all. Entries in the department close Saturday, July 21, at 10 P. M.

THE NOSE KNOWS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — (AP) — A 51-year-old blind man committed to state prison under one-year sentence for stealing a ham, was unabashed at questioning on how he'd done it. "Of course I couldn't see the ham," he said, "but I sure smelled it."

Premiums will be awarded in the various classes of Berkshires, Poland Chinas, Hampshires and Duroc Jerseys. All swine exhibits must be in place by 6 P. M. Tuesday of the Fair. There will be classes for aged boar, yearling boar, senior boar pig, junior boar pig, aged sow, yearling sow, senior sow pig, junior sow pig, aged herd, young herd, champion boar, champion sow, barrows and champion pen of three.

The National Spotted Poland China Record, Indianapolis, will pay special prizes for the various winners in junior boars and junior sows.

McKinley Kirk, local livestock buyer, is offering prizes for the best barrows; the Producers Co-operative Commission Association is offering a prize for the champion barrow of the show and Bea-Mar Farms offers a prize for the champion barrow, provided it is from a recorded Berkshire sire and dam.

Of special interest in connection with the swine shown, will be an exhibit of Minnesota No. 1 hogs, together with an exhibit of cross-breed pigs sired by a Minnesota No. 1 boar.

This strain of hogs is being developed at the University of Minnesota by Dr. L. M. Winters and associates and is part of the work of the Regional Breeding Laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The foundation stock for this new strain is a cross between the Danish Landrace of Denmark and the Tamworth breed.

This breed of hogs may become popular in Fayette County later on. This exhibit of experimental swine improvement is assembled by the Producers Live Stock Co-Op Association.

The swine exhibit will be in the swine buildings "on the hill."

Director of Fair

The up-swing in interest in sheep throughout the county paralleling the expansion in the sheep shows at the Fair can logically be credited, in part at least, to the activities of Walter Finley.

Of course the Shepherds' Club was considerable of a factor in both, too, but Walter Finley was the boy who helped coordinate these two influences.

There was a time not so long ago that sheep were conspicuous at the Fair by their scarcity. In recent years, they have come to be one of the main attractions of the livestock exposition "back on the hill." Close cooperation with the 4-H Clubs and county agricultural agent was a big help in the development. And, other directors, sensing the prospects, threw their support behind the Finley program with complete confidence in its director.

Classes have been added since he took over. Breeds of sheep rarely if ever exhibited at the Fair here began to make their appearance. Breeders began to take an interest and new exhibitors have been growing on the list.

Already the national Shropshire has been held here. When it was over it carried a blue ribbon for success. This year, there would have been the National Dorset Shire whad travel restrictions not interfered. Undiscouraged by wartime hindrances, Finley set about building up a "local show" that would feature sheep of the popular breeds from Fayette County's farms. The story of the growth of the sheep show is the story of Walter Finley at the Fair.

Young and full of energy and ideas, he is the third main spring in the Fair livestock committee.

He is well qualified for his duties for he is sheep and lamb salesman for the Producers Co-operative here. He has been on the Fair Board for two years.

Now living in Columbus, Finley was elected to the board when he lived here. He moved to the capital city only a few months ago.

Finley is a native of Cochocton County and a graduate of Ohio State University.

CHERRYFIELD, Me. — (AP) — The shortening shortage hasn't bothered Maine guide Harry Smith's consumption of doughnuts. Harry lives in bear country and claims doughnuts fried in bear fat are better than those dipped in more prosaic shortenings.

EVERY V-BOMB MISS A HIT FOR CHARITY

Londoner Pays $450 for 41 Weeks of Luck

LONDON — (AP) — Due to an anonymous man's strange offer, the family of some soldier, sailor or airman will benefit by about $450 from the Soldiers', Sailors' and Airmen's Families Association fund.

When the V-bomb attacks were at their height last July this man told his family he was prepared to pay 5 pounds to war charities for every week of danger so long as his house, family, office premises and staff remained safe. He did this for 41 weeks.

A few days before the end of London's rocket ordeal a V-2 landed within 100 yards of his house, causing some damage. But this man decided that, since other homes in the neighborhood were completely wrecked, such a "trifling matter" as his own ceilings, roof and windows should not let him out of his promise.

He sent his usual cheque to the S. S. A. F. A. with the request that it be used to help towards the education of a service man's child or to help a war widow.

ABOUT THE TAIL GUNNER? JUST GO AHEAD AND ASK

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — (AP) — Capt. Edward J. Sawberger, of Baytown, Tex., awaiting reassignment at an Army Air Forces rehabilitation center here, described how his Liberator made a crash landing on an Adriatic island.

"Any one hurt?" he was asked. "The nose gunner," Capt. Sawberger replied. "He injured his nose."

"And the—"

"No," said the captain, "the tail gunner wasn't injured."

THE LIVING DADE, EH!

MIAMI, FLA. — (AP) — Put Dade County on the list of the healthiest places to live. The first four months of this year 2,274 children were born, with 1,202 deaths reported for the same period.

SO HELL IS FOR SALE

And They Won't Give It to You In North Carolina

RALEIGH, N. C. — If you want to get Hell come to North Carolina.

Nobody will give you Hell, understand. You have to buy it. Hell and Purgatory are the names of two uncertain bogs in eastern North Carolina. The state board of education, owner, recently sold Purgatory. Hell is also for sale.

These bogs, called pocosins, are alternatively very wet and very dry, often have excessively acid soil, are covered by evergreen shrubs and scrubby pines, and have never been adequately surveyed.

In the history of the two pocosins a fire warden stands in the most sympathetic light. He called up headquarters and told his superior there was a fire in Hell. You can guess what they thought.

In feudal England, freedom of the highways was won only after a long struggle extending over centuries.

BIGGER AND BETTER MIDWAY PROMISED FOR FAIR

SIX RIDES SET FOR FAVORITE SPOT ON GROUND

Two Shows, 50 Concessions To Pitch Tents in County For Week

"Hurry, hurry, hurry, get your hot dogs here!"

The tinkling music of the merry-go-round, the whirr of the Ferris wheel motor, the delighted screams of crowds on amusement devices, the buzz of chatter and the special smells and sounds of a midway all will be reality next Tuesday when the bigger and better midway of the 1945 Fayette County Fair opens.

R. B. (Bud) Tharp, whose special care goes to the midway during Fair Week, says the short stretch of grassy Fairground set aside for concessions, rides and lunch stands, is going to be chock-full of entertainment and diversion this year.

There will be six rides—the traditional merry-go-round and Ferris wheel, a kiddie ride and three others. Just what they will be isn't definite yet, but Tharp is sure they will provide plenty of thrills and be safe.

And then there are the concessions—40 or 50 of them—which will line the midway on both sides including all the old standbys plus a few new ones, Tharp said.

Nobody will go hungry on the Fairgrounds for lack of an opportunity to buy food for there will be plenty of lunch stands, plus the popcorn, peanut and ice cream vendors. At least two new lunch stands are booked for this Fair, Tharp said.

There will be two shows on the midway—and Tharp emphasized they will be clean entertainment. The ever-popular glassblowers will be back again.

Especially for the under teenagers, the pony ride is coming back again. Last year some 3,000 youngsters took rides on the well-kept little animals.

Every foot of the midway has to be plotted out—planning just which show will go where is one of the toughest jobs Tharp has to do during the Fair. It usually takes two days to make all the concessions, shows, rides, lunch stands, etc., fit together.

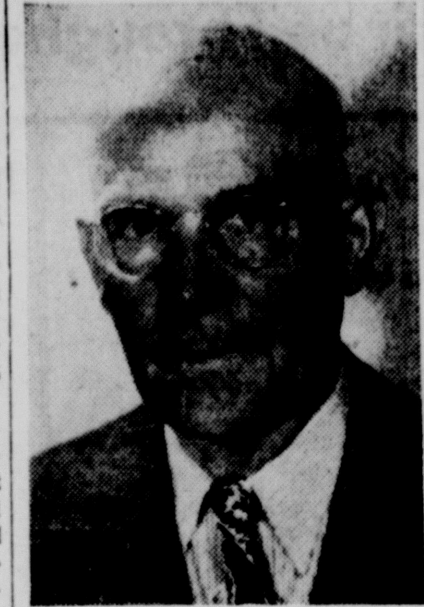

This year will make the seventh year the F. E. Gooding Amusement Company has provided most of the midway for the Fair. Only one year since the Fairs began in 1937 has some other company brought in the colorful midway that is the heart of every Fair.

The whale shark, largest living fish, is harmless and puts up no fight when caught by man.

Director of Fair

Mild mannered, imperturbable John C. Cannon is as much a part of the Fayette County Fair as the prize winning corn he grows and exhibits there although he admits confidentially that it is the harness horse racing that gives him the big thrills.

He was born in Highland County, but since he came to

John Cannon

Fayette County when only a year old, he considers himself a native.

Noted for his hybrid seed corn, he was one of 30 men in Ohio selected to breed it commercially. He is now in partnership with his son, John, Jr., in the seed corn business on his Paint Township farm. His first plot was only one-tenth of an acre; now corn tassels wave over many broad acres.

He has a fellowship cup awarded to those men who pioneered hybrid seed corn and is a director of the Ohio Hybrid Seed Corn Association. No wonder there is a big collection of ribbons and other trophies won at corn shows on the Cannon farm.

'HOSPITALITY JANE' RETURNS TO SEINE

River Steamer Broken Down But Survived War

PARIS — (AP) — The only Seine River steamer to survive the battle of France was laid up all through the German occupation because a vital part was missing.

But when the Germans left, the part mysteriously turned up again.

Capt. Frank Flanagan of Toronto, senior supervisor of the Knights of Columbus war service in France, took the boat over and named her Hospitality Jane.

Now Jane chugs merrily up and down the river every day taking service men and women on sight-seeing trips.

The agricultural exhibits at the Fair have been the pride and joy of John Cannon ever since he became a member of the Board when the Fair was revitalized in 1935. He also helps arrange the premium lists and, of course, is a member of the speed committee.

He is very happy now that this year his corn display has been moved from over in the Merchants Building to under the grandstand where he can make it to a view of the race track in two or three long steps. For, the races he just can't miss.

He and Mrs. Cannon live in their comfortable but unpretentious farm home about 10 miles from Washington C. H. His other son, Robert, is a farmer in the Mill-edgeville community. One of his two daughters, Mrs. Lawrence Grim, lives near Madison Mills and the other, Mrs. Louis Ulen, is living at home and teaching school at Jeffersonville while her husband is away at war.

FLAGPOLE IN ITALY IS TRIBUTE TO FDR

Negroes Put It Up - - - With Foot for Each Year of Life

ROME — (AP) — A 63-foot flagpole — one foot for each year of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's life — has been erected in an almond grove near Canosa, Italy, by members of a Negro aviation engineer battalion.

Mayor Giuseppe Sorrenti of Canosa publicly proclaimed that on every anniversary of President Roosevelt's death — April 12 — the citizens will bank the flagpole's base with flowers.

The battalion built a four-foot wall around the base of the flagpole, each foot symbolizing a Presidential term. At the base they placed a marble plaque with the words: "At this flagpole is dedicated in memory of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, 1882-1945."

SEA FREIGHT MOVES INTO ODESSA AGAIN

Black Sea Port Surpasses Prewar Volume

LONDON — (AP) — The great seaport of Odessa, on the Black Sea, now handles as much cargo as before the war, writes Peter Shari, a native of the city.

Odessa was freed from German-Romanian occupation April 10, 1944, after 30 months of bondage. Shari, in a story distributed by Soviet News, writes that "knowing how vitally important, the harbor is to the city, the Germans and Romanians took particular care to reduce it to ruins."

Much progress has been made in the past year, however: "The harbor lives today. Ships sailing in from British and American ports load and unload cargo at its moorings. The harbor is being both reconstructed and expanded. In the very near future it will be possible for such ocean liners as the Normandie to anchor here."

Reconstruction of Odessa's shipyards is also in progress.

ILLITERACY GETS JOLT FROM LAW IN ECUADOR

QUITO — (AP) — A new law requiring all illiterate Ecuadorians between 16 and 50 to learn to read and do elementary arithmetic within five years has gone into effect, with fines of from 40 cents to $12 for those who fail.

Heads of families are made responsible for sending illiterates of any age to school, with penalties of fines between $12 and $120. The National Union of Newspapermen was given the duty of enforcing the law.

Vast Cultural Heritage Is Safe in Vatican City

By LOUIS ZACCARDI

VATICAN CITY — Several million books, manuscripts, scrolls and codices belonging to some of the oldest and richest collections in the world have been deposited for safekeeping in the Vatican during the war.

This huge cultural patrimony includes a book of laws dating back to the sixth century; three law decrees of the tenth century the first ever written in Italian language; a treatise on religion by St. Thomas Aquinas written in his own hand, and a prayer book donated by Pope Alexander VI to Christopher Columbus, with a note believed written by Columbus himself.

Monks and priests rolled up their sleeves and put on overalls to help in the job of loading the books and packing them in thousands of wooden cases.

The first library to be removed to the Vatican was that of the Polish Academy of Cracow in Rome, shortly after the outbreak of the war in 1940. The last was the Chigi Archives, which were removed from the 17th century Chigi Palace in Ariccia, near Rome, while the battle of the Italian capital was in full swing towards the end of May, 1944. The collection of Mount Cassino Abbey was removed by men of the Herman Goering Division in October, 1943, taken to the fortress of Spoleto in central Italy, and later brought to Rome.

As for the Vatican Library, which contains one of the rarest collections of Greek and Roman classics in the world, it was felt that, owing to the neutral status of the Vatican and its sacred character as personal residence of the Pontiff, the possibility of an international bombing was to be discarded. Fear of damage from anti-aircraft shells, however, prompted the removal of the most important collections from the top floors to safer place, and in 1942 a special shelter was built, its whereabouts a closely guarded secret.

Welcome to the FARMER

'FARMER CAN STILL BUILD IF BUILDING IS NEEDED'

—Uncle Sam

To save material for our armed forces, construction has had to be limited on the home front. But the word has gone from Washington to local Department of Agriculture Boards and to us: If building is needed for a farmer to meet his 1945 Food for Freedom goal, he gets it. So list your needs and check with us now. Chances are you will not have to go any farther. We've been able to ferret out building material from many sources. We know what's to be had, and what isn't. Our own planning department knows all the angles —and can help you get that building done in one way or another.

FAIR REPRESENTS PERSONAL EFFORTS OF DIRECTORS

BOARD BALANCED WITH RURAL AND CITY RESIDENTS

Compensation in Conviction People Given Something Wanted and Needed

Very few of the thousands who have streamed through the gates of the Fairground here year after year for more than half a century, or hundreds who will follow their well beaten path the last week of this month, realize how much the Fair represents the personal effort and planning of that handful of men who make up the board of directors.

Most Fair-goers just accept the variety program of entertainment and panorama of educational displays at face value and as a matter of course.

If things don't quite meet individual whims, criticism is unrestrained. If the Fair brings pleasant surprises or measures up to expectations, only a few take the time or trouble to tell the directors.

But these 13 members of the board never seem to care much whether they ever heard a compliment or word of appreciation. They work like beavers, long hours of painstaking work filled with innumerable little irritating details, from early until late at night throughout Fair Week. When it is all over they are dog tired. But, they have the consolation of being able to look backward and "get a lift" in the satisfaction of having done a job well and given the community something each one of them fervently believes was both wanted and needed. That, they admit, helps some when they think of returning to the accumulation of their own private business they left to devote their full time for the week to the Fair.

While they seldom take time to give a thought to what they have accomplished, they will hold long conferences over the slightest complaint. One of them once said "we just assume everything meets with approval when we don't hear any comments, but when someone complains, we take it apart in the hope that it may lead to betterment or a new idea." The board, as its history will show, always has been wide open to suggestions, constructive and otherwise.

Few of the thousands who enjoy the Fair even know who are the directors. Six of them are farmers in the strictest sense of the word and seven are what could be broadly termed city men. But of those seven, two include farming in their interests directly.

The board believes this rural-urban membership ratio gives the board as near perfect balance as possible because, as the directors point out, the Fair is a balance of agricultural and entertainment business enterprise.

From the farm come Ralph Nisley, Harry Silcott, Sam Marting, Baldwin Rice, John Cannon and Walter E. Sollars to the board. From the city come Ray Brandenburg, the president, Frank Ellis, the secretary, Walter Finlay, R. Burris Tharp, George A. Steen, George L. Gossard and Harold Craig.

Nine of the present board started their job with street fairs spread all over the city's business section in 1935 and 1936. The next year, the exposition was moved out to the Fairground. It was nothing like the one coming up in two weeks, but it was the start for development. Weeds had to be cut and buildings patched up. There was no racing that first year, but it was started the following year, in 1938. Craig, Rice, Marting, Finlay have come on the board since the street fair start. They took the places of Charles Bryant, Howard C. Allen, Verne Wilson and Corwin Carr. The first three resigned and Carr has been in the Army during the last two Fairs.

The Fair is put on by what is known as the Fayette County Agricultural Society. It is subsidized to a small extent by the county under the state law but is self-supporting to a greater extent than almost any other Fair in the state. Those who ever give the matter any thought at all attribute this unusually sound financial position to the business judgment and principles applied by the board to its planning and conduct of the Fair.

The purpose of the society is to encourage improvement in agriculture, livestock and domestic sciences and promote general community betterment through the exchange of ideas and exhibit of achievements.

Anyone may become a member of the society by paying the $1-a-year membership fee not later than the first day of the Fair. The members select the directors by secret ballot on Friday of the Fair.

Membership on the board of directors is more than an honorary position—it entails hard work. The board, as the secretary's minutes show, starts preparing for the following year's Fair while one is still in progress. There are meetings at least once a month, and as the Fair draws near, several more. Meetings often last several hours.

Members of the board pride themselves on being able to wrangle and argue vehemently over almost any proposition and then when the decision is made all swing in to support it without reservations.

The board rarely goes outside its own membership for help. Directors themselves shoulder the responsibility of nearly all of the varied phases of the Fair, from the home arts exhibits to the side show and races to lemonade stands.

There are a few, however, who are called in year after year to head some of the subcommittees. These—about a dozen of them and all well known to exhibitors—bear a "very essential" label applied by the board. They do their job without material reward; like board members, their compensation comes from a job well done. The directors have said time and again, "we don't see how we could get along without them."

But the directors enjoy putting on the Fair, wearing as it is, and make no attempt to conceal it. It is a labor of love.

IN WHAT SPARE TIME?

CHICAGO—(AP)—A man of parts—and many of them—is Gordon Sherman. At 17, he's a top-flight gymnast and student at the University of Chicago. He paints with oils and draws with pen, ink and crayon. He's a sculptor, pianist and taxidermist. In his spare time he built a bagpipe. Plays it, too, in a band.

Buy War Bonds and Stamps.

Director of Fair

Harry Silcott is the dean of the Fair Board's directors. He is the only man on the Board who helped pu on the Fair back in the days when it was an independent enterprise backed by some of the county's most influential men.

When the Fair was revived, first as a street carnival in 1935 and then moved out to the Fairground three years later, Harry Silcott was one of the keystones in the organization.

Tall and erect, he lends the dignity to the Board. But, he relaxes at the meetings and gets as much pleasure out of them as anybody.

He usually leaves the new ideas to the other members of the board, but it is to him they turn for the final endorsement. They all have confidence in his conservative judgment. He is one of the main cogs in the machinery of the finance committee.

If he played any favorites among the various Fair departments, it probably would be the racing and agricultural exhibits.

A dirt farmer with the natural love of a Fayette Countian for livestock, he spends many an hour in the mornings during the Fair back "on the hill" looking over the hogs, sheep and cattle. He takes pride in his own small herd of Herefords and the hogs he raises on his neatly kept farm down in the point between the Greenfield and New Martinsburg pikes. Mrs. Silcott is almost as enthusiastic about the Fair as her husband.

As chairman of the county's AAA and War Board, Harry Silcott is intimately familiar with and sympathetic to the farmer's problems. His knowledge of farming and farmers here always has been put to good use by the Board in drafting its overall Fair program, especially the agricultural features of it.

TIN CAN IS INDIA'S JACK-OF-ALL-USES

NEW YORK — (AP) — Five-gallon tin cans, in which food, gasoline and other products are shipped to the armed forces, are serving India as seats in movie theaters, measures for fish and grain, and even, filled with sand and cemented together, as building blocks. The American Can company says East Indians buy the cans for about 12 cents in American money—a third of a native's daily pay—and sometimes attack each other with knives in a squabble over cans discarded by the Army.

LONGEVITY AFOUT

FAIR BROADCAST ARRANGED FOR ON 4 STATIONS

WHIO of Dayton To Give Daily Descriptions of Featured Events

The coming of the Fayette County Fair will be heralded this year over the vast expanse of the mid-dlewest by no less than four powerful radio stations.

Listeners as far away as the Rocky Mountains will hear about it over stations WLS of Chicago and those from the Mississippi east to the Alleghenies will be hearing it over the air waves from WLS and WKRC in Cincinnati and WHIO in Dayton.

When the contracts for the Boone County Jamboree and the National Barn Dance were made, they included ballyhoo on the air by the sponsoring stations.

And, once the Fair opens, descriptions of exhibits and featured events will be broadcast every day over WHIO direct from the Fair-ground.

A specially constructed 25-foot trailer will house the WHIO equipment and display material.

With a use of a special awning, WHIO will have a special display of equipment and pictures of program personalities out in the open so that Fair goers can examine the display material to the best advantage. Included in the equipment to be displayed and demonstrated, will be the newest in recording devices, known as the "wire recorder."

Broadcasts will be carried describing the harness races from the judges stand, while interviews will be heard from the WHIO mobile unit. Broadcasts will be made at 4:30 P. M. EST each day.

LIFE IN A CIRCUS HAS ITS CHARMS TOO

CHICAGO — (AP) — Circus performers are as superstitious as ball players.

Victoria Zaccini, the human projectile, never climbs into her cannon until she pats it twice.

Terrell Jacobs, the lion tamer, won't enter a cage before one of the big animals bites the handle of his whip.

Betty Parroff insists on donning something blue—a hair bow, for instance—before she goes aloft for her high ladder chore. Once she forgot it. "And," she says, "I dislocated my leg."

Petroleum is a complex mixture of hydrocarbons and their sulfur, nitrogen and oxygen derivatives.

ANETA PEGS GOEBBELS AS ONE-TIME SWINDLER

NEW YORK — (AP) — Paul Joseph Goebbels, former Nazi propaganda minister, was fired from an early job because he attempted to swindle his employers, says Aneta, Dutch news agency.

In 1929, the report goes, Goebbels obtained a job as bookkeeper in the well-known Sarasani circus, proved "very intelligent," but ran into trouble when he demanded more money than the director, Hans Stosch, was willing to pay him.

For 18 months he successfully swindled Sarasani, Aneta says, but was discovered and fired.

Alaska was once called Russian American.

Cubs Rally To Beat Giants And Hold To 4-Game Lead

By JACK HAND (By the Associated Press) Time is beginning to run out on the "Cinderella Men" from St. Louis in their quest of a second American League flag, but Luke Sewell's St. Louis Browns are determined to make things tough on any would-be successors.

Washington, who was making menacing motions toward the first place Detroit Tigers were somewhat subdued when the Browns hit town last night and clubbed the Nats twice.

Even the Browns in sixth place, 6 1/2 games off the pace, still are factors in the wide open flag scramble that gives every club in the circuit, except the Philadelphia A's, at least a hope and prayer of making the grade.

The Browns really spoiled the evening for the Washington crowd

-Spying- On Sports By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 17.—(P)—The present campaign, says Eddie Travis of the Newport News, Va., Times-Herald, could not be permitted to pass without mention of Ervin Palica's one-pitch victory for the Newport News Dodgers.

The Lomita, Calif., lad came into a recent game with Norfolk with the score tied and two out in the ninth. The next Norfolk batter popped up on the first pitch so Palica was the pitcher officially in the game when the Dodgers won out in their half of the ninth.

Sky's The Limit

For two years, the Middletown Club in the Ohio State League has been known as the "Middies" and last year it finished in the middle of the standing. Recently the club directors changed the nickname to "Rockets." The players took the hint and Middletown rocketed from second place into a comfortable lead over the Springfield Giants.

"Now," adds Lee Addington, the National Association publicist, "Manager Ivy Griffin is faced with the task of proving that the same Rockets which shoots up can defy the laws of gravity and stay up."

Future Book

Professional Golfers Association leaders plan to get in touch with British officials in the near future with an idea of reviving the Ryder Cup matches in 1946 in England.

Fans, who already have welcomed Al Benton and Hank Greenberg back from the armed forces, "are in for some very good news in a short time—provided nothing goes wrong." No names mentioned.

"Wonder what's in the story that Great Lakes may not have a football team next fall since Buddy Young and several other stars who figured prominently in Lt. Paul Brown's plans have been shipped out."

19th Hole At Country Club

Richard Sanderson, wounded by a Jap sniper on Leyte and only recently discharged from the army, shot two on the number seven hole. Par is four on the 343 yard hole and Sanderson used a number four iron on the second shot while he was playing with D. Brandenburg, A. E. Weatherly, W. S. Paxson and Walter Rettig. His iron shot bounced to the green and trickled in. He thought it had gone over.

The only other golfer who have had a duce on number seven are Mercer Hoffman, Marvin Thornburg, John Hagerty and Bruce Devins.

Frank "Mountain Goat" Brown is very good at shooting from the tops of bunkers.

Mrs. Lorena Littleton just started to play golf in May and, after three lessons, turned in a 58.

Mrs. Ott Reigel made a record for her golfing with a 55 score.

In the handicap tournament, Forest Ellis defeated Dr. Fred Woodland and Walter Rettig defeated Paul Spencer.

Out for the first time this year were Roush Burnett, Otis Core, L. C. Coffman, H. H. Denton, Clovis Graves, Ed Suntheimer and Max Thomas.

The most regular twilight threesome is Ora Middleton, Frank Lentz and C. R. Bohn.

Edward Cullen and his two sons Bob and Joe, are playing a pretty good game of golf.

Don Denton had his first birdie on number eight hole while playing with his father, H. H. Denton.

Dr. Woodland played 36 holes Sunday. Dr. Charles Pfersick, home on furlough, toured the course also.

Tony Capuana and Frank Baker are challenging Bill Junk and Bill McLain to another match this year. Last year Capuana and Baker were the winners.

Taking lessons from the pro now are Miss Juanita Cannon, Mrs. Littleton, Ed and Joe Cullen, O. V. Tucker, Herman Brown, Ray Farley, Miss Marguerite Maugher, Ren Redo, Dr. Francis Haines, Dan O'Brien, Miss Jean Willis and T. E. Arnold.

Among the missing at the club now are: Frank Boso, Ormond Dewey, Russell Geibelhouse, Elmer Junk, W. H. Limes, W. E. Parker, James Shoemaker and Herb Wilson.

Scores of the week: Stan Hagerty, 39; Jim Grinstead, 42; Don Brandenburg, 45; W. W. Jones, 45; O. W. Landrum, 45; Bill Himmel-spach, 38; Forest Ellis, 37 and O. D. Farquhar, 43.

Walter Jones defeated Ormand Dewey in the handicap tournament.

Jim Grimstead and Eugene McLain saw the Byron Nelson-Sammy Byrd PGA match at Dayton.

DRUGS NEEDED IN SLOVAKIA BY MEN IN WHITE

Returning War Refugees and Nazi Prisoners Are Menace To Health

AP Newsfeature

BRATISLAVA—The war is not over for Slovakia's men in white, upon whom falls the tremendous task of maintaining public health with a dearth of medical equipment and supplies.

Repatriates are beginning to flood into Slovakia, possibly carrying diseases. In addition the starved inmates of German concentration camps have been thrown to the care of doctors, who must carry on without automobiles, surgical instruments, drugs—even without food.

The serious medical problem faced throughout the Danube valley is illustrated by the plight of St. Elisabeth's hospital here. A Catholic institution, with nuns serving as nurses, it was stripped by the Germans of all its valuable radium for cancer treatment, of all surgical paraphernalia, and of all medicines and antiseptics.

With the liberation of the country two medical missions hurried into Slovakia from England, consisting of 160 Slovak and Czech doctors and 100 nurses.

Dr. Arpad Lovacs, who has directed 200-bed hospitals in England for the last six years, showed correspondents through the stripped hospital. "The UNRRA promised to help us, but it is slow in coming," he said, almost in tears. "For God's sake please let the outside world know what we must work without."

"There are no sulfa, sedatives, anesthetics, morphine, cardiac stimulants, vitamins, hormone extracts.

"There is not a single transfusion apparatus in the interior of Slovakia and people are dying daily because of the lack. It is what we need most."

"In this hospital, which was long famous for its treatment of cancer victims, we have one radium-treated emanation, and it won't last long."

"Because of circumstances, we must put scores of tuberculosis cases in the same wards with other diseases. We don't have the powders to keep flies out of the hospital. We don't have blood plasma."

"Two days ago we got 90,000,000 units of penicillin from UNRRA, which we managed to distribute through Slovakia. Our shipments came through Constantinople and the first one was robbed on the way. Now Czech soldiers guard the convoys, but we estimate that at least half the supplies intended for us were stolen in the port."

have a good time," but who have as much fun as the little ones. The six rides, the innumerable concessions, lunch stands, shows and booths all have their big part in the Fair.

The most ambitious race program ever attempted here has been arranged for four days—Wednesday through Saturday. The $10,000 card includes eight $1,000 stakes and four $500 open class races. So attractive was the program made that it drew many horses that have been performing on the Grand Circuit. A combination of speed and balance has been built into it with one of the heaviest entry lists since the revival of races here. And, up to now only eight of the horses nominated have been withdrawn, the fewest on record.

There will be no less activity in the grandstand at night. A different show every night, each with plenty of laughs and tap-your-foot music is planned. Tuesday will bring the ever-popular Boone County Jamboree from Cincinnati's WLW radio station; Wednesday, the WKRC Cornhuskers' Jamboree starring Bradley Kincaid; Thursday, Lulu Belle and Scotty headlining the WLS Hello Neighbors show; Friday, Buck Steele's Marvel Horse Troupe and Circus; and Saturday night's climaxing show will be the WLS National Barn Dance with Graham's Western Riders as an unusual added attraction.

The fireworks, returning to the Fair for the first time in three years, will be just as dazzling as they ever were and promise to show some new and different displays developed during the time they were not available. There will be a display every night.

The livestock shows always draw more than a little interest, and from all indications the entries this year will be among the finest ever shown on the Fairground here. The 4-H Club boys and girls will have a chance to show off the product of their year's work, too, and then sell it at auction.

Every year the women come to the fore with their needlework and cookery. They also have a chance to show their knack with flowers in the flower department. And it's not only the men who carry off fruit and vegetable prizes.

At almost any time during the day or night you can see someone enough horses on the ground now to have a race meet." (This has come to be one of the major winter training centers in this section.) He also pointed out that the ODT ruling did not forbid, under the general interpretation, shipping race horses by truck or van and it was recalled that it has been years since harness horses were brought here by train.

As the meeting broke up, the directors repeated that they had no disposition of doing anything that would interfere with the prosecution of the war; that it was their intention to conform to every request and order. They added they felt this had been done.

The good racing which has set the Fair 'way at the top of the list in past years will be back again. The top-notch livestock and agriculture exhibits, the gaudy, noisy, gay midway and the hurly-burly spirit of having a good time are in store. The outstanding night entertainment with the addition once more of a dazzling display of fireworks is ready to roll.

Yes, it's almost Fair time again. At the Fairground, everything is ready for the caravans of the F. E. Gooding Amusement Company, which will provide the Midway, mecca for wide-eyed youngsters and for grown-ups who go along "just to see that the kids

Markets and Finance

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP)—Grain futures opened fractionally lower today with the exception of corn, which was at ceiling prices for all deliveries. Overnight selling orders pushed wheat down as much as a half cent and rye also was off a half cent.

At the opening wheat was unchanged to 1/4 cent lower than yesterday's close, July $1.64 1/2-1.65. Corn was unchanged, July $1.18 1/2. Oats were 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July $1.53 1/2. There was no early trading in barley.

looking over the corn and other grains all neatly labeled and arranged for showing, for a rich agricultural county like Fayette County naturally produces more than a normal interest in things grown or bred on the farm.

Organizations such as the Granges, Farm Bureau Councils, 4-H Clubs, Campfire Girls, Boy Scouts and the Children's Home all have a chance to show the public what they have been doing all year long and to illustrate their goals.

During the next few days, crews of workmen will be working from early until late putting the finishing touches on the grounds. The weeds and hay will be cut, the timothy hay cured and baled and hauled away and the weeds raked up and disposed of.

A new show and sales pavilion will be ready for the livestock exposition and auction of the 4-H Club animals, for years one of the big features of the Fair for both young and old.

Men and women in the uniforms of the country's armed forces are to be admitted free. The Fair Board has expressed the hope that every one here next week will come as its guest.

Given good weather, attendance records should be broken, the directors believe. They base their optimism on the program that has been arranged.

SANTIAGO, Chile.—(P)—The poet Pablo Neruda whose pen has brought him fame as a defender of the workingman, has become a Chilean senator.

THE BULLETS ALSO HAD A NAMEPLATE ON IT

GRAND ISLAND, Neb.—(AP)—During the Yanks' headlong cleanup of Germany, Pvt. Dale W. Hongermeier caught a glimpse of a house whose nameplate bore his mother's maiden name.

Shortly afterward he was shot in the shoulder. An exchange of letters with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hongermeier of Grand Island, established that he was wounded in action near his mother's birthplace.

Keep cellar stairs in good repair to prevent accidents.

Cubs Rally To Beat Giants And Hold to 4-Game Lead

By JACK HAND
(By the Associated Press)
Time is beginning to run out on the "Cinderella Men" from St. Louis in their quest of a second American League flag, but Luke Sewell's St. Louis Browns are determined to make things tough on any would-be successors.

Washington, who was making menacing motions toward the first place Detroit Tigers were somewhat subdued when the Browns hit town last night and clubbed the Nats twice.

Even the Browns in sixth place, 6½ games off the pace, still are factors in the wide open flag scramble that gives every club in the circuit, except the Philadelphia A's, at least a hope and prayer of making the grade.

The Browns really spoiled the evening for the Washington crowd as they beat Johnny Niggeling in the opener, 7-3, and defeated Roger Wolfe in the finale, 5-1.

Detroit whacked the Yankees, 9-4. Stubby Overmire tamed New York for the Tigers' first triumph of their second Eastern invasion.

Bobo Newsum, who lost 12 before entering the win column, won his second straight decision, 7-1, on a two-hitter against Chicago.

Russ Christopher, the A's bell cow, was handed his fourth successive beating, 6-2, in the first game.

Cleveland put the damper on Boston, 3-2.

Chicago maintained its four-game advantage in the National by coming from behind in the last of the ninth with two runs and a 4-3 shade over New York's Van Mungo.

St. Louis clung to second by shutting out the Braves, 2-0, behind Harry Brecheen.

Tom Seats, of Brooklyn, lasted all the way to defeat Pittsburgh, 8-4.

The most regular twilight three-somes is Ora Middleton, Frank Lentz and C. R. Bohn.

Edward Cullen and his two sons Bob and Joe, are playing a pretty good game of golf.

Don Denton had his first birdie on number eight hole while playing with his father, H. H. Denton.

Dr. Woodard played 36 holes Sunday. Dr. Charles Pfersich, home on furlough, toured the course also.

Tony Capuana and Frank Baker are challenging Bill Junk and Bill McLain to another match this year. Last year Capuana and Baker were the winners.

Taking lessons from the pro now are Miss Juanita Cannon, Mrs. Littleton, Ed and Joe Cullen, O. V. Tucker, Herman Brown, Ray Farley, Miss Marguerite Maugher, Red Reno, Dr. Francis Haines, Dan O'Brien, Miss Jean Willis and T. E. Arnold.

Among the missing at the club now are: Frank Boso, Ormond Dewey, Russell Geibelhouse, Elmer Junk, W. H. Limes, W. E. Parker, James Shoemaker and Herb Wilson.

Scores of the week: Stan Hagerty, 39; Jim Grinstead, 42; Don Brandenburg, 45; W. W. Jones, 45; O. W. Landrum, 45; Bill Himmelbach, 38; Forest Ellis, 37 and O. D. Farquhar, 43.

Walter Jones defeated Ormand Dewey in the handicap tournament.

Jim Grimstead and Eugene McLain saw the Byron Nelson-Sammy Byrd PGA match at Dayton.

R. E. Le Beau, who is in the finals of the consolation flight of Central Ohio District Amateur Tournament at Columbus, played golf here with Charles Dunton and Himmelsbach.

Because of a large money guarantee, admission to the game is set at 25 cents, tax included. The game will begin promptly at 8:30 P. M. at Wilson Field.

Brewer Lead Cut by Blues

By The Associated Press.
The woes of the league-leading and defending champion Milwaukee Brewers in the American Association weren't stopped when they finally got rid of St. Paul last week.

They found that out last night when their lead was cut to a few percentage points as last-place Kansas City thumped them in one game, 15-3, and then came back to win the second contest of a double-header 5 to 4.

Today the Brewers move back to St. Paul for a doubleheader, recalling the Saints won three out of four from them last week in their own Borchert Field.

Second-place Indianapolis came from behind with a five-run sixth inning to beat Louisville, 5-2. The Indians smashed out four hits, including two triples, and coupled them with two walks by Rex Cecil, to score the five runs and give Wes Flowers his tenth victory of the season.

St. Paul marked up six runs in the early innings and coasted along to win from Minneapolis 7 to 6.

In the other association meeting last night, Toledo bumped off Columbus twice, 5-0 and 5-1. Cliff Fannin allowed Columbus only two hits in the opener.

19th Hole At Country Club

Richard Sanderson, wounded by a Jap sniper on Leyte and only recently discharged from the army, shot two on the number seven hole. Par is four on the 343 yard hole and Sanderson used a number four iron on the second shot while he was playing with D. Brandenburg, A. E. Weatherly, W. S. Paxson and Walter Rettig. His drive was about 200 yards. His iron shot bounced to the green and trickled in. He thought it had gone over.

The only other golfers who have had a duce on number seven are Mercer Hoffman, Marvin Thornburn, John Hagerty and Bruce Devins.

Frank "Mountain Goat" Brown is very good at shooting from the tops of bunkers.

Mrs. Lorena Littleton just started to play golf in May and, after three lessons, turned in a 58.

Mrs. Ott Reigel made a record for her golfing with a 55 score.

In the handicap tournament, Forest Ellis defeated Dr. Fred Woodard and Walter Rettig defeated Paul Spencer.

Out for the first time this year were Roush Burnett, Otis Core, L. C. Coffman, H. H. Denton, Clovis Graves, Ed Suntheimer and Max Thomas.

The most regular twilight three-somes is Ora Middleton, Frank Lentz and C. R. Bohn.

Edward Cullen and his two sons Bob and Joe, are playing a pretty good game of golf.

Don Denton had his first birdie on number eight hole while playing with his father, H. H. Denton.

Dr. Woodard played 36 holes Sunday. Dr. Charles Pfersich, home on furlough, toured the course also.

Tony Capuana and Frank Baker are challenging Bill Junk and Bill McLain to another match this year. Last year Capuana and Baker were the winners.

Taking lessons from the pro now are Miss Juanita Cannon, Mrs. Littleton, Ed and Joe Cullen, O. V. Tucker, Herman Brown, Ray Farley, Miss Marguerite Maugher, Red Reno, Dr. Francis Haines, Dan O'Brien, Miss Jean Willis and T. E. Arnold.

Among the missing at the club now are: Frank Boso, Ormond Dewey, Russell Geibelhouse, Elmer Junk, W. H. Limes, W. E. Parker, James Shoemaker and Herb Wilson.

Scores of the week: Stan Hagerty, 39; Jim Grinstead, 42; Don Brandenburg, 45; W. W. Jones, 45; O. W. Landrum, 45; Bill Himmelbach, 38; Forest Ellis, 37 and O. D. Farquhar, 43.

Walter Jones defeated Ormand Dewey in the handicap tournament.

Jim Grimstead and Eugene McLain saw the Byron Nelson-Sammy Byrd PGA match at Dayton.

R. E. Le Beau, who is in the finals of the consolation flight of Central Ohio District Amateur Tournament at Columbus, played golf here with Charles Dunton and Himmelsbach.

Because of a large money guarantee, admission to the game is set at 25 cents, tax included. The game will begin promptly at 8:30 P. M. at Wilson Field.

Minister Is To Coach At Kent as Sideline

KENT, O., July 17—(AP)—Rev. John Reinheimer, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, will divide time this fall between his ministerial duties and the coaching of the Kent Bears in the North-eastern Ohio Bantamweight Football Association. Rev. Reinheimer was a varsity lineman at Trinity College for three years. He will be assisted by a wounded veteran, Lyle (Deke) Warren, who served as a tank commander with the Fifth Army in Italy.

Today the Brewers move back to St. Paul for a doubleheader, recalling the Saints won three out of four from them last week in their own Borchert Field.

Second-place Indianapolis came from behind with a five-run sixth inning to beat Louisville, 5-2. The Indians smashed out four hits, including two triples, and coupled them with two walks by Rex Cecil, to score the five runs and give Wes Flowers his tenth victory of the season.

St. Paul marked up six runs in the early innings and coasted along to win from Minneapolis 7 to 6.

In the other association meeting last night, Toledo bumped off Columbus twice, 5-0 and 5-1. Cliff Fannin allowed Columbus only two hits in the opener.

Wilsonians Beat API To Hold Lead

The Wilsonians had their hands full when they tangled with the API softballers Monday night, but they managed to hold to their Twilight League lead by scoring 2 runs in the last frame to break a 3-all tie and win 5 to 2.

The war workers were their own worst enemies, committing 5 errors to make more effective the opposition's meager 5 hits. Russ Warner held the API outfit to a quintet of bingles, but he got better support.

The Wilsonians tallied first in the third inning and then added 2 in the fourth. The API boys came back in their half with two and tied it up in the fifth. Going into the seventh and last frame knotted, the Wilson crew turned on the heat and put across the two clinchers.

DRUGS NEEDED IN SLOVAKIA BY MEN IN WHITE

Returning War Refugees and Nazi Prisoners Are Menace To Health

AP Newsfeature
BRATISLAVA—The war is not over for Slovakia's men in white, upon whom falls the tremendous task of maintaining public health with a dearth of medical equipment and supplies.

Repatriates are beginning to flood into Slovakia, possibly carrying diseases. In addition the starved inmates of German concentration camps have been thrown to the care of doctors, who must carry on without automobiles, surgical instruments, drugs—even without food.

The serious medical problem faced throughout the Danube valley is illustrated by the plight of St. Elisabeth's hospital here. A Catholic institution, with nuns serving as nurses, it was stripped by the Germans of all its valuable radium for cancer treatment, of all surgical paraphernalia, and of all medicines and antiseptics.

With the liberation of the country two medical missions hurried into Slovakia from England, consisting of 160 Slovak and Czech doctors and 100 nurses.

Dr. Arpad Lovacs, who has directed 200-bed hospitals in England for the last six years, showed correspondents through the stripped hospital. "The UNRRA promised to help us, but it is slow in coming," he said, almost in tears. "For God's sake please let the outside world know what we must work without."

"There are no sulfa, sedatives, anesthetics, morphine, cardiac stimulants, vitamins, hormone extracts."

"There is not a single transfusion apparatus in the interior of Slovakia and people are dying daily because of the lack. It is what we need most."

"In this hospital, which was long famous for its treatment of cancer victims, we have one radium-treated emanation, and it won't last long."

"Because of circumstances, we must put scores of tuberculosis cases in the same wards with other diseases. We don't have the powders to keep flies out of the hospital. We don't have blood plasma."

"Two days ago we got 90,000,000 units of penicillin from UNRRA, which we managed to distribute through Slovakia. Our shipments came through Constantza and the first one was robbed on the way. Now Czech soldiers guard the convoys, but we estimate that at least half the supplies intended for us were stolen in the port."

have a good time," but who have as much fun as the little ones. The six rides, the innumerable concessions, lunch stands, shows and booths all have their big part in the fair.

The most ambitious race program ever attempted here has been arranged for four days—Wednesday through Saturday. The $10,000 card includes eight $1,000 stakes and four $500 open class races. So attractive was the program made that it drew many horses that have been performing on the Grand Circuit. A combination of speed and balance has been built into it with one of the heaviest entry lists since the revival of races here. And, up to now only eight of the horses nominated have been withdrawn, the fewest on record.

There will be no less activity in the grandstand at night. A different show every night, each with plenty of laughs and tap-foot music is planned. Tuesday will bring the ever-popular Boone County Jamboree from Cincinnati's WLW radio station; Wednesday, the WKRC Cornhuskers' Jamboree starring Bradley Kincaid; Thursday, Lulu Belle and Scotty headlining the WLS Hello Neighbors show; Friday, Buck Steele's Marvel Horse Troupe and Circus, and Saturday night
